

JURY DISAGREES IN STEPHENS CASE

A mistrial was declared Wednesday by Judge G. H. Howard in the case of Otis Stephens, charged with the robbery of T. J. Ryan, of 52 East Harris street.

Stephens, who was Tuesday convicted on a charge of assault with intent to murder, is alleged to have robbed Ryan of a pistol valued at $20. After deliberating approximately two hours on testimony given in the box and announced that they could not agree on a verdict. The date for the new trial was not set.

Stephens was sentenced to serve eight months Tuesday when found guilty of assaulting M. O. Lettich, a guard of the city stockade, while attempting to escape. Stephens, it is said, struck the guard with a rock, inflicting severe injuries. Witnesses

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR ROY E. CALHOUN

An escort from the Atlanta Bar association attended the funeral services Wednesday of Roy E. Calhoun, of the Atlanta Title & Trust company, at the chapel of H. M. Patterson and Son. Dr. Charles W. Daniel officiated and interment was in West View cemetery.

Members of Argonne post No. 1, American Legion, also attended in a body. Mr. Calhoun was a member of the Burns club, the Shrine, the Atlanta Athletic club, the Elks and the American Legion. During the war he served in the marine aviation corps.

Testified that Stephens then ran under a nearby house and continued to throw the missiles until shot in the leg by the guard.

Stephens has made many escapes from the city stockade, his record being three in one month. An indictment charging escape is still pending against him.

D. A. V. DRIVE HEADS LA PLANS TODAY

Assa G. Candler, Sr., chairman of the finance committee, in charge of raising $25,000 to aid in entertaining the sixth annual convention of Disabled Veterans of the World war, Wednesday called a meeting of "key" Atlantans at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel in order to lay plans for launching the drive next Monday for the funds.

Mr. Candler was appointed to head the committee by Alderman Guy Dobbs at a meeting Monday of the city's committee. A citizens' group was named by Mayor Walter A. Sims to assist members of the Woodrow Wilson camp No. 1, of Atlanta, which will be host to the convention. More than 5,000 veterans are expected to attend.

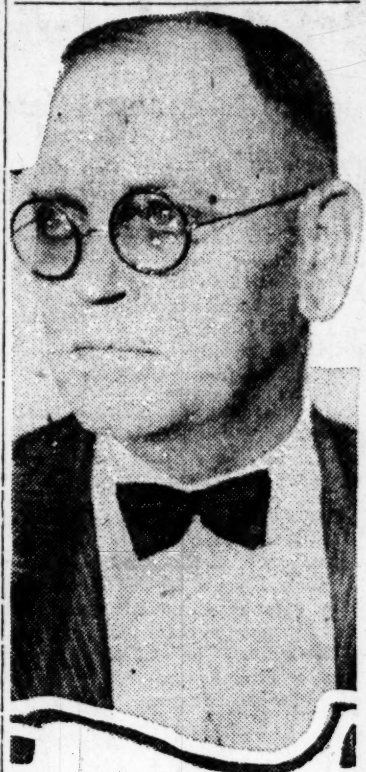

It is the plan of leaders to complete the campaign in one week. The national meeting will take place from June 21 to 26 and delegates from all sections of the country will attend.

Colonel W. L. Grayson, department commander of the Georgia Spanish-American war veterans, stated Wednesday that the Georgia department will participate in the parade in which companies of blind, lame and wounded ex-service men will march. Joseph O'Connor, representative of the national department of the D. A. V., and James Finch, commander of the local camp, are directing work at headquarters.

Lakewood amusement park here will be thrown open without charge to veterans, according to Oscar Mills, secretary of the Southeastern Fair association.

monster open meeting to be held here Thursday night by Tribe No. 88. His subject will be "The value of the Improved Order of Red Men to the community and to the state at large."

Mr. Lee is quite an enthusiast for improved highways in Georgia and it is announced that he will touch upon this subject in his address and explain the value of paved highways to the state and tell how a bond issue for state roads would be retired by the present automobile income and how it would be impossible for taxes to be raised if that plan is followed. He will advocate, it is announced, that the Red Men of the state endorse the bond issue and urge the legislature to grant the people the right to say themselves whether they approve the issue. Mr. Lee, it is stated, also favors the bond issue for educational purposes and will touch upon that issue also.

Arrangements are being made by members of Tribe 88 for a monster rally Thursday night.

NEGROES SENTENCED ON ROBBERY CHARGES

Will Brown and Henry Turner, negroes, entered pleas of guilty Wednesday before Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court to charges of larceny from a store each night following closing hours. Brown, it is stated, was the driver of a garbage truck which hauled off the rubbish from the store. According to the evidence Turner would throw out a number of boxes of cigars and cigarettes and Brown would take them and dispose of them. Other arrests are expected to be made at an early date against persons alleged to have received the stolen goods.

The negroes were jointly indicted in connection with the theft of ten boxes of cigars from a local cigar store. They also were indicted on misdemeanor charges. On this charge they were given terms of 12 months, to follow other sentences given.

Turner, according to attaches in the office of the solicitor general, was an employee of the cigar company and "cleaned up the store each night following closing hours. Brown, it is stated, was the driver of a garbage truck which hauled off the rubbish from the store. According to the evidence Turner would throw out a number of boxes of cigars and cigarettes and Brown would take them and dispose of them. Other arrests are expected to be made at an early date against persons alleged to have received the stolen goods.

PERU IS LOOKING TO U. S. TO SETTLE TACNA-ARICA VOTE

BY GERALD MARTIN.

(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and the Atlanta Tribune.)
Arica, Chile, March 31.—Peru's chances for a victory in the Tacna-Arica plebiscite are failing away, and its supporters are pinning their faith on Washington via a diplomatic settlement.

Senor Freyre, the Peruvian delegate, abstained from voting at this afternoon's meeting covering the registration progress, showing that Peru determined not to recognize the registration which totals 1,500 voters to date, 90 per cent of them being Chileans.

Yesterday the Peruvian transport Ucayali carried a boatload of people north from Tacna-Arica and tomorrow the transport Huallago will carry a further number, including the registration officials, and it is estimated that all the Peruvian officials and workers, outside of the voters, are leaving.

While Senor Freyre is silent regarding his departure, intimating that he is awaiting word from Washington, it is evident that he is planning to go to Lima. The Peruvian voters' camp is at a standstill.

Major, General William Lassiter, the American agent in the commission, refused to make any statement.

NEW WELFARE SOCIETY OFFICERS INSTALLED

Installation of new officers of the Family Welfare society and reports of various officials of the past year's work, featured the twenty-first annual meeting of the society Wednesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce. Horace Russell was installed as president to succeed Marvin Underwood.

Other officers who were installed are: A. J. Orme, first vice president; T. H. Daniel, second vice president; R. L. Foreman, third vice president; R. A. McGill, treasurer, and Miss Ada Woolfolk, secretary.

According to reports by the auditor $59,189.96 was received by the society in 1925 from the Community Chest. Receipts from other sources brought the total to $133,133.54, according to the reports submitted.

Mr. Underwood, retiring president, and Willis Sutton, superintendent of schools, who made principal talks, eulogized the late Joseph Logan as "dean of social service in Atlanta." Mr. Logan, who died recently, was one of the outstanding welfare workers of the city for many years.

Reports of R. A. McGill, treasurer, and Miss Ada Woolfolk, secretary, showed that the society had expended $63,000 during the year 1925, and of this $30,000 went into relief and service to 1,827 families including 9,135 individuals, an average of $5.50 for each individual in the society's care.

Visitors made 10,830 visits to homes of families, and 4,525 visits to other places in behalf of clients. There were 8,154 office interviews.

Miss Woolfolk gave results of a cross section study of families under care of the society. Fifty-three per cent were broken homes. The society brought non-support action against 156 fathers during the year, and as the result of special efforts 96 per cent of the little children are enrolled in school this year, as against 21 per cent in 1923. Five per cent of working children in families are illiterate, as against 22 per cent of the parents, records pointed out.

As a result of work with these families only one per cent show delinquency or conduct problems that are not yielding to ordinary treatment, it is said. Thirty per cent of the individuals need some kind of attention in health matters and through efforts of visitors 126 had hospitalization, and 384 clinical treatment.

The report indicated that in one-fourth of the families there was indication of mental disease or defect, and called attention to the lack of facilities for diagnosis and treatment. A study of 15 child marriages and 100 who were married as minors, children showed problems of desertion, incompatibility, feeble-mindedness, chronic disease conditions, from two to seven times as great as in other families.

GEORGIA G. O. P. HEADS ENJOINED

Temporary injunction restraining members of the state central committee of the republican party of Georgia from paying themselves or other persons salaries or money from funds received in contributions to be used as directed by the state convention of the organization, was granted Wednesday by Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court.

The proceedings were brought by Dr. F. H. Peck, Dr. H. E. Stockbridge and Dr. E. H. Brinson, members of the state central committee of the republican party of Georgia, against John W. Martin, treasurer of the party; B. J. Davis, secretary of the organization; Mrs. L. A. Davidson, assistant secretary; Cary Cook, fiscal and collecting agent; J. H. Watson and B. S. Ingram, members of the central committee.

The petition asked for an accounting and recovery of the money said to have been spent by the defendants amounting to approximately $25,000 within the past two years.

The petitioners set out that the central committee is to collect money to be used as directed by the state convention of the party. "Dr. W. Y. Gilliam, chairman of the county of Gilmer, petitioners believe, is making an honest effort to properly administer the affairs of the party," the suit sets out, "the petition provides.

Cary Cook travels from place to place soliciting funds, paying himself out of such funds as he desires for his own use, and turning the balance over to Martin and Davis," the petition provides.

The petitioners further charge that they believe that a very large part of the funds collected have been misappropriated and squandered by the defendants. One of the methods used to squander the funds, it was brought out, was by "paying themselves, in shape of alleged salaries, monthly sums of said funds to wit: John W. Martin, $300; B. J. Davis, $250 per month; J. H. Watson, Mrs. Davidson and B. S. Ingram, $100 each per month, the amount paid to said Cary Cook being unknown to the petitioners," the plaintiffs state.

The salaries are "illegal, have not been authorized and are unknown to the rank and file of the party," and the defendants are insolvent and are not working for the interest of the party," according to provisions of the proceedings.

The injunction was filed by the law firm of Chambers & Dickey. Judge Thomas set Saturday morning, April 3, as date for hearing.

The republican state convention meets here on this date.

SAFETY COUNCIL RECEIVES REPORT ON NATIONAL MEET

A feature of the weekly meeting Wednesday of the Atlanta safety council was a report of J. E. Skaggs, president, on the national conference held in Washington last week at the call of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

The Atlanta council was represented by Mr. Skaggs and George Deibert, secretary, who were commissioned by Governor Walker to represent Georgia.

The outstanding accomplishment of the national conference was the adoption of the suggested uniform code of laws and regulations covering traffic, which was prepared by a committee of experts headed by General Nathan W. MacChesney, past president of the national conference of commissioners on uniform state laws. Local leaders pointed out, suggested model consists of a uniform motor vehicle registration and certificate of title act, a uniform motor vehicle operators and chauffeurs license act and a uniform act regulating operation of vehicles on highways. Other reports adopted were those of the committees on enforcement, causes of accidents, metropolitan traffic facilities, statistics, etc.

Vice President Bachman reported for the fire prevention committee of the council that his group is seeking the advice of dependable experts on the Atlanta situation, with a view to presenting a definite plan for reducing fire loss here.

Testing Prohibition With Straw Votes

AFTER SIX YEARS of prohibition it remains one of our liveliest domestic issues and, as one Western editor observes, any one is blind who does not see that "the stage is being prepared for the most vigorous political battle in the nation for years--with Prohibition as the issue, and the modification of the Volstead Law as the aim." What with the recent newspaper straw votes all over the country, the Senatorial hearings on modification measures, and the State campaigns hinging on the Prohibition issue, editors now see in progress a new survey of the whole Prohibition situation.

Turning to the papers which are unimpressed by the unofficial balloting in the recent newspaper poll, the Tacoma Ledger is convinced that the recent straw vote was "a worthless referendum." The idea of trying to amend the Constitution by a straw ballot seems perfectly ridiculous to the Spokane Spokesman-Review--"as well might an effort be made to take a straw ballot on slavery, or disenfranchisement of women, or direct election of United States Senators, or any other amendment that has been added to the Constitution since the original document was adopted in 1790."

In this week's LITERARY DIGEST, the leading article consists of a summary and a searching analysis of the recent nation-wide straw vote conducted by hundreds of daily newspapers throughout the country, in which more than three million ballots were cast.

Among other interesting news-features in THE DIGEST this week, April 3d issue are the following:

How Often Does the Weather Man Miss?

WHILE THE UNITED STATES Weather bureau has "taken over short-range forecasting from the corner-store rheumatic and the patent-medicine almanac," it is not for the present "competing with cure-all literature in long distance prophecy." There was a time, we are reminded by a writer in the Kansas City Star, when the "weather prophet" furnished almost as many jokes as the mother-in-law. But in those days "the science of forecasting and its equipment had not emerged from the experimental stage."

You will be interested in reading this article because it touches upon a subject with which the public is not generally familiar.

THE FIGHT JUST BEGUN!
The failure of the educational bill in the house Wednesday, to receive a constitutional majority will be disappointing to the thousands of Georgians who had hoped this legislature would answer the call of the people for an opportunity to vote on the issue of an expanded and unified system for the training of the children.

And yet, viewed from its significance as to the record of the legislatures of the past, it was a marvelous triumph for progressive thought and action, and an unmistakable prophecy that nothing can throttle the issue from becoming paramount in the approaching legislative contests, and from an eventual victory—and at no distant date—in the assembly, and in Georgia's greater and broader and more representative forum of democracy.

The vote stood 97 for the submission of the amendment to 94 against, an affirmative majority of those voting, with 16 members absent or not voting.

This is first of all a vindication—by every rule of popular government—of the eternal righteousness of the great principle involved, and, second, an immutable evidence of the will of the majority of the people of Georgia, whose representatives voiced their convictions, that the state shall make suitable and adequate provisions for the educational and vocational training of the youth—such as Georgia has not today—from the grammar schools to and through the greater finishing institutions of the university system.

Nothing under mortal control can stop the tide. It took other states in the south that aroused themselves from the lethargy of self-satisfaction many years to overcome political prejudices and the misunderstandings born of ignorance. The marvelous record of Georgia in less than one year in that respect is the forecast of definite and fruitful action in the future. Georgia is aroused. The parents are aroused. The issue burns with white heat.

The proposal to adjourn sine die—or its equivalent test vote in that for adjournment until Thursday—was overwhelmingly defeated. The highway bond amendment will go on the calendar, and it is stronger today than ever before, with its friends militant and unafraid.

The school bond amendment, while voicing a great fundamental principle, was undeniably weakened by its failure to carry a definite funding clause and a definite schedule of allocation. Notice of reconsideration was given, and its further consideration under amendment may or may not be considered at this session. Whether this is true or not the issue will be outstanding, in a strengthened status, in the assembly of 1927.

The highway bond amendment is definite in its funding, involving no taxes except those paid by the motor owners. It is a tax reduction measure in that it will make unnecessary the issuance of county highway bonds, and will coordinate the paved roads of the state into a system—which is now woefully lacking. Proponents of the road bonds, now that the issue comes in directness, see victory ahead. The legislature is asked to let the people say—that is as far as its function goes. It should have done so in the matter of the school bond amendment. It is an anomaly on democracy when a majority of those voting may not so order, under every rule of democracy.

Every friend of progress—every real, true friend of Georgia to the firing line!

The fight for the welfare of this state, in the broadness of 161 counties and 3,000,000 people, has just begun.

STOP THE JUGGLING!

The need of another federal judge in Georgia is urgent. Other southern states, with less than half of the trial cases on the combined calendars, have three judges, and most of them three judicial districts. Georgia is large in territory, with the largest population of any state in the south except Texas, and necessarily, in ordinary routine of litigation, is more in need of an additional judge than any other.

The department of justice has long recognized this. The chief justice of the United States supreme court, former President Taft, has made a personal appeal for this addition.

The consensus of opinion is that Georgia should have three districts instead of two, thereby providing the additional judge—not as floating—but with organized jurisdiction. It would relieve both of the other districts.

But unless the members of the Georgia delegation in congress compose their differences and stop playing a poor game of politics in the interest of prospective candidates, the state will get neither another district nor another judge. What Georgia wants is court relief. There are plenty of good men, at the bar and on the bench, who would make a competent federal judge. For the time being the delegation should stop political log rolling and get down to the main issue. Otherwise all will be lost—and Georgia's well-known petty political fights nationally aired in a most regrettable manner.

FROM A MAN WHO KNOWS.

On this page today J. T. Holleman, president of the Southern Mortgage Company, a native Georgian who knows the problems of the farmer and the problems of the state as related to agriculture, as perhaps no other man, makes an earnest, vigorous appeal to the legislature to think in terms of state-wide prosperity, in the interest of the farmer, the rural community, and the small county.

He pleads with the legislators to think of the 60,000 vacated Georgia farms since 1920, and of the human equation involved, and give to the state a program of highway and educational development that will rehabilitate the country life, stimulate productivity, vitalize the weed-infested farms, and quicken the progress and the welfare of all the people.

He knows the farmer's trials. He knows what the expansion of schools and the building of a system of paved county seat to county seat highways will mean to every citizen of the state, and particularly to those in the rural communities where the pinch of economic depression is felt most keenly.

With more vacant farms in Georgia than in any other state in the union, with thousands of farmers holding on to their old homesteads only through the grace of extended loans, with accumulated unpaid interests added to the principal, with the fields of production shut off from markets by mud roads, indebtedness, in desperation, to do what the state has obligated to do and failed, and what the state can only do by the adoption of a progressive program of expansion, Mr. Holleman urges, begs, implores the legislature to rise to the occasion, put petty politics aside, think in terms of 3,000,000 people, think in the determination to bring back the crown of Empire—to give the people a chance to join the procession of southern prosperity.

If the building of more schools and the expedition of traffic by viaducts are of sufficient economic value to warrant the issuance of $8,000,000 in bonds in Atlanta—as was done by a vote of ten to one—then will not the building of a state-wide system of connected and paved roads, and the enlargement and unification of the entire state educational system justify the issuance of state bonds? Mr. Holleman not only asks the question, but as a business man vigorously frowns upon the effort to retard state progress at the expense of petty politics, jealousies and prejudices.

Read the communication. That citizen loves his state best and serves his state best who frankly and resolutely analyzes her problems, locates her troubles and seeks with courage and force to apply the proper remedies.

It is foolish to say Georgia does not need at the earliest possible moment a connected system of paved highways. It is foolish to say Georgia does not need to expand her educational system in order to give all her boys and girls the proper chance in the world. It is equally as foolish to say these goals can ever be reached, without a staggering and confiscatory burden of taxation, except by capitalizing credit, as every great and successful business is compelled to do.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

Love's Morning Song.

I. A morning song came ringing Over the garden place; Love listened to the singing And saw his sweet heart's face. Rosy with the morning, And the dimples in her race.

Give the Home Fish a Chance.

In making preparations for a spring vacation—if spring ever comes—heed this paragraph from the Larned Tiller and Tiller.

"If he wishes to buy useless fishing tackle, which will not do what is claimed for it, he can order same by mail from the druggist. If he wishes to fish for trout, but not catch any, this can be done in almost any stream in this vicinity. Fishing for trout, in the most expensive pastime known to the human race and statisticians, mathematicians, taxidermists and photographers, have figured out that one should not go to Colorado to fish for trout, unless he is financially independent or is slightly unbalanced mentally."

The Little Dreamers.

There was a time when I too thought, That rabbits Easter eggs would lay, And that it was old Santa Claus Who brought me gifts on Christmas day.

Then, I knew at the rainbow's end A pot of shining gold I'd see, And that ship would come some day, And bring all hoped for things to me!

No one could rob the heart to rob Glad childhood of its dreams, and say, "They're but illusions Time will bear, O pinions swift, far, far away!"

We know, to childhood, it is Love That gives, sweet, though vain dream glances.

And we, in Easter's meaning find The proof, that Love forever lives. —ROSE HUBNER.

The Jewell Republican says: "A woman dreamed she was in a trance and was about to be buried alive. Finally she managed to tell her husband she was not dead, but he informed her that he had already hired the band for the funeral, and he didn't want to back out at that late hour."

Flower Songs.
The violets sing, O spring, Dainty ballads of love, And we, in Easter's meaning find The proof, that Love forever lives.

Then a soft, eerie sound Rings up thru the ground, From daffodils waiting for the spring, As winter draws near, For springtime is coming, you know!" —LIDA WILSON, TURNER.

See the Weather Bureau.
We will no more to heaven complain When trouble comes to bat, If heaven will keep the cold and rain From Mollie's Easter hat.

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SILENT TALKER.

There is nothing so restful, soothing, and inspiring as to talk with some one who doesn't talk.

My friend and I took a walk the other evening. I have known him for 11 years. Sometimes we sit in the library and talk for hours—books, business, art, people, nations, furniture, flowers, newspapers and a world of whatnots. Then we look at our watch! It is two o'clock! Then, of course, to bed. But the time trotted so fast.

But about the walk. This time we didn't talk. We just looked and thought. We saw beauty in the sky that was intoxicating. A feathery covering of clouds had made the heavens a net-work that moved like a silken robe in a light wind. Stars sparkled through the little pathways like diamonds. And a full moon played the hours away.

I wondered about heaven that I used to hear my father preach about. I remembered my mother's prayers. I melted in stature to that of a boy with bare feet in the country where I had gone to work. It was so silent that night—and a moon came out to talk and play. Moons have ways. They come wide away from the busy city or the activity of your town, you get a new viewpoint. You see, you understand much that was vague and complex with people around.

My friend and I knew each other. We had so often talked about our plans, our ideals, our discouragements, our likes and dislikes. So that when beauty arose before us, we became suddenly silent. For beauty quickens everything but the heart. And so we talked and talked. But we talked in symbols, signs and thoughts—silently.

It is so good to have a friend. It is better to understand a friend. And it is still better to know how to forgive that friend and to overlook the lack in that friend. There is no argument so powerful as that which is silent.

THE CONSTITUTION, ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1926.

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

New York, March 31.—There are some philosophers who claim that a war is good for people. I begin to believe it. It cleans house, they say, and something has to happen before long else the frozen laughs of the blasé night-hawkers will freeze this town into a big iceberg. Reverses are becoming livelier every week, the jokes are bluer and the costumes more daring. Adam's wife, in her original evening gown, would not cause a ripple nor any of these blue blouses and skirts to turn their head. It's all old stuff to them; they're bored stiff.

You can sit in a place that is advertised all over town as the acme of gaiety, hilarity and joy and you won't hear a giggle all night. Both men and women sit watching the performers with half-closed eyes, cynical, sneering lips, puffing away at cigarettes and not uttering a sound for hours at a stretch.

To appear bored must be considered a sign of hyper-sophistication. Only a hick or a rube laughs. But the atmosphere in such places is so tense, so unnatural, so full of silly stick-up bandits or an elephant doing the Charleston or an ostrich on his back eating spaghetti with a spoon.

The worst of it is that most of the bored folks are young people. You can understand an old rube getting fed up after years of philandering and bounding, but boys and girls in their teens and twenties; that sounds too much like Babylon or ancient Rome where they became so satiated with pleasure that they had to see blood every time they wanted a thrill and either went to look at Christians mauled by wild

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Wolf-Children.

In the most popular superstitions there is a foundation of truth. Take for example, the stories long current in India and not unknown in European history of wolf-children—children carried off by she-wolves in infancy and suckled by them. Cases of this kind no doubt, gave rise to the tales of the werewolf, a man who was said to be able to change himself at will into a wolf and back again. Such a thing, of course, is impossible. But wolf-children are not uncommon according to the Madras Courier and some details are given by Sir Bamfylde Fuller in his "Science of Oriental Magic." He states the case of a male child that was discovered some years ago sitting in company of a wolf at the entrance to its burrow in the Agra district of India. The child was taken to the Secundra Missionary asylum, where he remained until his death 30 years later. During all these years he could never be taught to stand completely upright, and he never learned to speak. In fact his sole accomplishment seems to have been that of crawling on all fours like a dog. He was a native of the British colony of India, and gave several more examples of wolf-children.

Snubbing A King.

A new book of "Reminiscences," written by Mrs. Conyns Carr, has some remarkably close-up views of the great and the near great of the latter part of the last century. Here is one for instance: "A certain lady, Mrs. Barrie, astonished social London by refusing an invitation to receive the King Edward had called on her in his private brougham, but she refused to drive with him. 'You are afraid of what people will say,' he laughed, 'but they say all sorts of things of me and I don't care.' 'Perhaps Sir,' the lady replied, 'but so far they say nothing of me.' 'You mean that they ever shall.' We learn from this book that Sir James Barrie obtained one of his best lines in Peter Pan from a small boy, whom he afterwards adopted. 'You'll be sick tomorrow, Jack, if you eat any more chocolates,' his mother said to him during a picnic at which the dramatist was one of the guests. 'I shall be sick tonight,' replied the child, helping himself to another candy. Barrie was so delighted that he offered the child a royal pension of one penny a performance for the copyright. The offer was promptly accepted and proved an excellent investment for the boy.

Education, Golden Key To Unlock Rich Resources of State.

Editor Constitution: Our little folder, "What Our Alumni Are Doing," shows that leaders in the fields of service associated with agriculture and stock raising enjoy as great opportunities as certain in any other profession. It demonstrates the benefits which technical education will confer upon our agriculture. It is noteworthy that a number of our graduate land owners made $5,000 net and upwards during the trying crop year of 1925. The average net farm income in the south is around $500. Think of increasing it from 300 to 900 per cent through the medium of professional training.

Our alumni are slowly but surely making a new destiny for Georgia. We only have 452 of them now, but they are the best of the near future. A selected group of men and women with an average earning capacity of $2,579 a year puts our graduates in a class by themselves. Eighty per cent of them are in the upper 3 per cent of the population of the United States with regard to earning capacity.

Education plainly holds the golden key whereby the rich treasury of Georgia's soils and other natural resources can be unlocked. These basic and fundamental facts will no doubt interest The Constitution's readers.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

NEVER MIND MR. COPPINS.

Funny, but every time I mention here (or some correspondent mentions) the electronic reactions of Almonds get a bunch of sarcastic letters. I'll tell the world they're sarcastic, and I consider myself a competent judge of sarcasm, from more or less obscure, shady or unlicensed healers or their dupes or hirelings.

So when I published in this column February 8 the diametrical reactions of the Coppins persuasion, I was expecting that I should receive some snappy rejoinders from people of the Coppins persuasion. My friend Coppins, you will not remember, was suffering from a sore throat or something, which he ascribed to his practice of sleeping with bedroom windows open and this heinous practice, it seems, I have urged in my talks here, and so Mr. Coppins threatened me with a lawsuit. I thought of my Dumb Dora column altogether if I did not take warning from his complaint.

The reaction to the Coppins reaction proved different from the kind I anticipated. It has been a surprise and a delight to me to find so many people who are positively not of the Coppins persuasion. A lot of these people have written to me to assure me that they believe in my teachings in respect to the cure and how folks get it are true—of course I know that already, but it is mighty pleasant, nevertheless, to receive such assurances. Many of these people cite their own experience or history before and after taking my mental medicine, by way of illustration, and nearly all of them express the hope that I will not pay much attention to the Coppins reaction lest it sadden my temper and cause me to cease to write to assure these good friends that I get nearly as much enjoyment from a Coppins reaction as I do from a diametrical one.

It is a trifle saddening, though, to think how many thousands of people have awakened in the morning with a sore throat even when all the bedroom windows were closed beyond peradventure.

And then, while the lachrymal secretion is excited, think of all the unlucky mortals who have awakened from their three thousand six hundred and fifty-six sleep in a cold, open window or without a great Bell's palsy. This is a facial paralysis, one sided. And think of the harm of these facial palsies after his eighteen hundred ride in a car with an open window through which the air blew over his head. That don't think of the other 3,649 times the victim of Bell's palsy has been similarly exposed to the draft or cold. In fact, don't think anything if you want to believe Bell's palsy is caused by cold. One who would believe such hokum should not try to think—it might strain his brain. I will not hand out this line of hokum presume that there is no danger of brain strain in the case.

In Bell's palsy the affected side of the face is immobile, remaining "frozen" even in emotional excitement. Perhaps this curious "frozen" appearance of the face is due to a contrast with the animated mobility of the sound side of the face, stentorian in the notion that the trouble is the result of exposure to cold. The apparent reason for ascribing facial neuritis or any other nerve inflammation to exposure to cold is that the doctor is unable to ascertain the actual cause in the given case.

Yaarab Pilgrimage To Gainesville Oasis

Stated for April 30

Potente Thomas C. Law has set Friday, April 30, as the date for the pilgrimage of Yaarab Temple to the oasis of Gainesville, Ga., where a ceremonial session will be held on invitation of nobility and citizens of that city.

Arab Scouts Charles A. Bowen and Virgil Shepard visited with the committee of Gainesville citizens recently and made preliminary arrangements, and Potente Law already has chartered a special train to carry the caravan, hand, patrol, claret, and hand, degree team and nobility, and definite announcement of time of leaving, railroad fare, etc., will be made later.

Recorder George E. Argard announces that applications for membership at this ceremonial must be in the recorder's possession by the night of April 29, and accompanied by a fee of $17. The business meeting for election of candidates will be held at shrine headquarters, Spring and Harris streets at 5 o'clock Wednesday, April 28.

Friday night of this week Potente Law will give a reception in honor of Major Albert S. Kuegle, infantry, upon completion of his present assignment and duties as student of the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., has been assigned to the 8th brigade at Fort McPherson, Ga., and will enter upon active duty as executive officer of the brigade, succeeding Major Lathrop B. Clapham, who recently received orders assigning him as a student to the War college, in Washington.

Major Kuegle comes to Fort McPherson with a splendid record. He is a graduate of the advanced course of Fort Benning and now is completing the command and general staff course at Fort Leavenworth. He was a lieutenant colonel during the war, acting as executive officer of G-3, general headquarters, in France, after the war he was for some time in the office of the Adjutant General in Washington. He is the wearer of a distinguished service medal.

Major Kuegle will complete his work at Fort Leavenworth early in June, when he will join the staff of General Joseph D. Leitch, at Camp Milledale, Ala., to become executive officer. He will take up his residence at Fort McPherson about August 10.

GOVERNOR INDORSES NATIONAL HOME HERE

In letters to Senator Harris and Congressman W. D. Upshaw, Governor Clifford Walker Wednesday urged the support of the bill appropriating $1,000,000 to establish a national Soldiers' and Sailors' home in Atlanta.

"The people of the state of Georgia are united in their endorsement of the movement to establish within this state a national soldiers' and sailors' home for veterans of all wars," Governor Walker stated in the letter.

Walker also announced that Ralph H. Carroll, adjutant general of the United States War Veterans has requested W. L. Matlocks, a member of the national legislature, to give the passage of the bill his personal attention.

A Plea From One Who Knows About Those 60,000 Abandoned Farms

BY J. T. HOLLEMAN

Editor Constitution: All my life I have felt a keen interest in the proceedings of the Georgia legislature as it has assembled, year after year, in the city of Atlanta. No legislature which has assembled in my time has ever enacted injurious or dangerous laws. This concern of the legislature of a number of other states.

I therefore, have confidence in the present legislature and believe that it will give the people of Georgia the opportunity of voting upon an amendment to the constitution which will permit an issue of bonds for the support and advancement of education and for the construction of paved highways. The people want the opportunity of voting upon this matter and I feel certain that the legislature will grant it, in spite of the bitter fight that is being made by some people against the proposition.

Something occurred in Atlanta last week which showed once again to those members of the legislature who hesitate to vote favorably upon a bond issue. A great object lesson has been presented to them. The people of Atlanta voted for an issue of $8,000,000 in bonds for educational purposes, for viaducts, for streets and for the construction of paved highways. These bonds did so because they knew that the building of new schools, the construction of viaducts and the extension of streets would increase the value of all real estate in the city and put new life into every business enterprise.

Every citizen who voted for these bonds knew that whether he owned property directly affected by these improvements or whether he owned property to sell to school, that his property and his business wherever situated would be helped.

If the people of Atlanta are to receive such benefits from an issue of bonds, why should the people in the small towns and the rural districts of Georgia be deprived of the benefits that will certainly flow to them from an issue of bonds to be used in supporting and extending education and the construction of paved highways throughout Georgia? There are newspapers and a number of prominent men in Atlanta who have eloquently advocated the issue of bonds by the city and who have, in the same breath, bitterly denounced an issue of bonds for identical purposes by the backward counties of the state. These men must hold in very low estimation the intelligence of the men who make up the legislature. The inconsistency of these newspapers and these men would be laughable if the matter were not so serious. When I read the editorials of these newspapers and the signed articles of these gentlemen who have been fighting the bond issue I am compelled to believe that they are ignorant of the facts of the case, or that they are so thoroughly uninformed or that they are totally without sympathy for those who live in the rural districts.

There are now more than 60,000 farms in the state of Georgia less than in the year 1920. In November of last year one of the Atlanta papers which is now so bitterly fighting the bond issue, published an editorial in regard to the abandonment of the farm lands in Georgia used these words, which I was careful to copy out and preserve: "The Georgia farmer has lost more than one big fact to hug to the Georgia heart at this time is that had we operated 310,000 farms this year instead of 49,000, the price of cotton would have been far below its present level." I do not wonder that a newspaper that could use this language is now engaged in doing all it can to prevent the reoccupation of the 60,000 thousand farms in which now lie vacant, and I am obliged to conclude that these prominent men in Atlanta, some of whom have been very highly honored by the people of the state, must entertain exactly the same views as set out in the language above quoted.

The writer of this editorial utterly ignores the human element in the matter of farm abandonment. If we consider also the states of Alabama and South Carolina we find that there are 100,000 fewer farms in the three states than there were in the year 1920. No greater calamity has ever occurred in any country and I do not expect the devastated regions of France. The newspapers and magazines and touring travelers tell us that France long ago recovered and that her farms are already being fully cultivated and that it is impossible to believe in any country that so lately the scene of armed conflict. But in Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama we still see 100,000 farms lying stark and bare, and the people of these states are being forced to leave their homes and go to the cities to find work. The people of these states are being forced to leave their homes and go to the cities to find work.

The legislature cannot afford to ignore this matter of abandoned farms in Georgia. The Atlanta editor in the language I have quoted undertook to apply a salve to the sores. He said, "The distinguished president of the State College of Agriculture, in a recent statement, undertook to cover up the ugly thing by saying that most of those who had left the farms were 'of the tenant class.' Dr. Soule is wrong in his books and in his every business man, of every banker and of every tax collector in the state of Georgia will show that he is wrong. Thousands of farmers have been swept off their feet. Would the picture be any less ghastly if the characters were only 'of the tenant class.' Would a tenant whose home had been destroyed suffer less than a man who had lost his farm?"

The destruction of 60,000 homes in one state and of the scattering of perhaps 100,000 people who made up the families that dwell in these homes! Think of the loss in value of improvements on these farms which have been forced to leave. Nothing can accomplish this so quickly and so certainly as the building up of our schools and colleges and the construction of paved highways. The length and breadth of Georgia, this is the great question that confronts the legislature. Let the members of that body look beyond the petty details involved, let them consign to abler and more competent men the problem of working out any plan of application of the bond issue, and let them take a broad view of the situation, and resolve that this thing must be done and that the people of Georgia may have the opportunity to grow and develop and become rich and powerful.

Crew of Sinking Vessel Is Rescued by Steamer; Storm Causes Great Loss

One Life Lost on Sea, 18 Persons Have Narrow Escapes—West Is Left Deep in Snow.

New York, March 31.—Twenty-eight members of the crew of the British freighter Laleham were rescued from their sinking craft in mid-Atlantic Wednesday night by the steamer Shirvan as the giant Cunard liner Mauretania was racing to the aid of the stricken vessel.

A radio message received at the offices of the Cunard line here from the Mauretania at 10:45 o'clock Wednesday night reported that all of the crew had been saved but did not disclose whether the bulk of the freighter was still afloat. The message had been sent by the Shirvan to the Mauretania and then relayed.

According to the message, the rescue was effected at 7 o'clock. No details were given of the net which had saved the apparently doomed crew as water poured into their vessel's hold.

The Mauretania, the world's fastest ocean liner, had picked up the British freighter's S. O. S. at 2 p. m. when she was 180 miles away from the sinking ship.

With Captain A. H. Rostron on the bridge, the man who commanded the Carpathia when it rescued survivors of the ill-fated Titanic, the ocean greyhound leapt to its task. Before it could reach its destination, however, the Shirvan had completed the rescue.

The Shirvan was bound for Falmouth, England, and when word of the rescue was received, resumed her course to New York and will arrive here Friday morning.

Calls for Help.

Storm and havoc in sweeping the north Atlantic, while far inland a wintry blizzard lock prairie and lake states in snow and ice. In addition to the Laleham's crew, for help another vessel sent out a single S. O. S. Wednesday. Nothing further has been heard from the ship. It is believed to be the freighter Laleham, which left New York, Spain, March 20, and was due in New York April 6.

Closer to the Atlantic seaboard the gale swept its toll, also. Not since the days when the President Roosevelt fought for the lives of the Antioch's crew has the Atlantic so menaced shipping and human life.

One life already has been lost. A member of the crew of the coast guard patrol boat 139 off Long Island was swept to his death by the seas that lashed the deck of the tiny craft.

Eighteen others were saved from similar deaths. 15 of them off Lewis, Del., when a dredge was swamped. The last of the 15 had to be taken from the floundering dredge by a life line. A keeper of a lighthouse rescued three negroes from a disabled ferryboat pounding on the rocks off Fort Chester.

MARCH LION DEPARTS.

DISASTER LEFT BEHIND.

The March lion roared a departing farewell tonight and left large sections of the country knee deep in snow.

The departing march left behind a west, northwest and southwest in the icy grip of a 72-hour blizzard which was tearing eastward in the teeth of powerful winds.

While the storm of three days duration partly had paralyzed all forms of transportation and wire communications, caused heavy property loss and resulted directly or indirectly in upwards of a score of deaths, weather bureau forecasts indicated some relief tomorrow in the form of colder weather, gradually decreasing precipitation and abatement of the wind.

The colder weather, however, threatened to throw transportation facilities into confusion. In the north, where it was tonight, with prospects of freezing snow and slush forming a serious handicap to all forms of travel.

The storm, which was expected to be only temporary as another storm from the northwest was headed toward these states.

Blizzard in Snow.

In the northwest, cold weather already had appeared with temperatures ranging from 20 degrees above to below zero. Then a blizzard of snow ranging from 10 to 15 inches was with drifts ten feet or more in depth.

The midwest states received the brunt of the storm's fury and tonight it was moving rapidly eastward. Nebraska laid claim to the only spring weather in the region. This state reported sunshine, little snow and temperatures above freezing.

In Iowa and Illinois railroad and street car traffic serious was handicapped with street car traffic in some cities almost at a standstill. In Chicago, shovellers tried to dig out the drifts. Trains from Chicago westward were running from an hour to a day late and some train schedules were scratched.

POLICE COMMITTEE HOLDS QUIET SESSION.

Reinstatement of Patrolman W. D. Nash, relieved of his position several weeks ago for alleged failure to perform his duties, and election of four special officers who will be assigned to the police had without compensation, Wednesday night featured one of the quietest sessions in the police committee of council held so far this year.

Special officers named are J. W. Mason, Fred Quinn, Frank Adair and John Parker.

Other routine business was transacted.

EDUCATION BOND PROPOSAL DEFEATED

The business men of Atlanta are admittedly in favor of them.

Representative Hooper voted for the measure, while Representative Kempton and Wood voted against it.

Representative Wood, in explaining his vote, said that he could not approve the bill as it was drawn though he might vote for it if the measure had provided means for retirement of bonds and had separated the different items.

Representative Besie Kempton did not explain her vote.

Colleagues Divided.

The DeKalb county delegation voted two to one in favor of the bonds. Representative Davis voting against, while Representatives Weekes and Lindsay favored them. Representative Davis said that his position in opposition to all bonds was well known.

Representative Lindsay, author of a substitute bill that was voted down before the vote on the main bill, said that those who defeated school bonds ought to have a statue erected to them in front of this capitol.

In his status he said, the anti-bond forces should be depicted as a soldier defending the state treasury, but beneath the soldier's feet should be the figure of a drowned child, "trampled hopelessly" in the dust.

The entire session of the house Wednesday was devoted to final arguments and nearly all state officials watched the proceedings from gallery seats.

Speeches made on the bill before calling of the previous question included two on behalf of the bonds, by Representative Dekle, of Lowndes, and Representative Culpepper, of Fayette, and one against by Representative Doyal, of Floyd.

Antis Bill Proposal.

Several bond opponents spoke in the morning of the minority committee report unfavorable to the passage of the bill, including Representative Mihner, of Dodge, leader of the anti-bond forces, who confined his remarks to personal comment upon members of the staff of The Constitution; Representative Peterson, of Montgomery, who urged continued adherence to the tenets of the constitution of 1877, and Representative McClure, of Baldwin, who based his opposition on the argument that there was no provision for retirement of the bonds.

On the main question, Representative Jones, of Meriwether, introduced a constitutional amendments committee, which voted the measure out, spoke for 20 minutes, urging members to let the people vote on an issue of such fundamental importance to the state.

Before the main bill was put upon its passage, four amendments to the main bill and three substitutes were overwhelmingly voted down.

Perfecting the main bill first, an amendment by Representative Hooper was first defeated. A second amendment by Representative Alexander, of Chatham and others, reducing the bond total from $23,000,000 to $11,000,000 was then defeated. A third amendment by Alexander and others, apportioning this $11,000,000 was likewise defeated.

An amendment by Representative Stark, of Whitfield, which simply authorized the issue of $23,000,000 in bonds without specifying how the money should be divided, was also defeated.

A substitute bill by Representative Lindsay, of DeKalb, providing that each of the four items in the bill should be submitted to the people for ratification separately, was defeated by a vote of 99 to 43.

A substitute by Representative Tucker, of Berrien, providing for an additional ad valorem tax of 11.2 mills to provide educational expansion funds was defeated.

Apportionment Offered.

A substitute by Representative Rivers, of Lanier, apportioning the bond money $9,000,000 to the University of Georgia and $9,000,000 to consolidated rural schools, was defeated 95 to 45. This substitute also provided that the bonds could be issued until means for their retirement had been worked out.

On the motion to agree with the report of the committee, favorable to passage of the main bill, a rising vote

"Home Beautiful" Experts Will Make Residence Here

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Thomas, of Richmond, who for three years have directed the "Home Beautiful" exhibits given by The Constitution and cooperating merchants, and who engaged in the project, have completed arrangements to go into business here and to make this city their permanent home.

They have leased the interior decorating department of the magnificent new store of J. M. Phillips, Inc., and have bought a lot and selected plans for a new residence in Avondale Estates. The new venture means that they will give up their present business as soon as contracts are carried out.

The new home of Stephen Phillips, Inc., which will be located on Peachtree street, near the Georgia Terrace, will be formally opened on May 1. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will be here at that time to meet the people of the city who will give up their present business as soon as contracts are carried out.

Mr. Thomas for a number of years has been advertising directing the Richmond Times-Dispatch. His wife is a noted decorator. In 1923 he realized the opportunities offered in the home decorating business in this line of work. Since that time he has been teaching the value of the beautiful in the home in many of the largest cities of the country. He has attended to the business end of his wife's decorating and furnishing of gave the first intimation of the close strength of the opposing factions. By a margin of 87 to 10 the Georgia report was concurred in, the count showing a vote of 89 to 85.

The measure was then put upon its passage upon the roll call. The bill provided that the $23,000,000 should be divided as follows:

For prompt payment of state school teachers' salaries, $10,000,000; for the purchase of land for the University of Georgia and its branches for new buildings and equipment, $11,000,000; for enlargements and repairs to the state capitol for the purchase of land for the University of Georgia and its branches for new buildings and equipment, $11,000,000; for enlargements and repairs to the state capitol for the purchase of land for the University of Georgia and its branches for new buildings and equipment, $11,000,000.

The senate Wednesday passed the inheritance tax bill, permitting the state to collect 80 per cent of the estate tax imposed by the federal government. This bill will bring to the state over $500,000 between now and the time the regular session meets, thus paying the extra tax on the estate of a burned building at the 12th district A. & M. school at Cochran.

The house will resume consideration this morning of a bill to increase the appropriation for support of the veterans' service bureau. This measure was under debate when the education bill was taken up Tuesday.

There are about twenty bills awaiting action by the house, including the $70,000,000 road building bill, which has been passed by the senate. The house will take up the measure for consideration and vote.

It is likely that the rules committee will meet today or tomorrow and set a date for the vote on road bonds.

Port E. Land, state superintendent of schools, Wednesday issued a statement charging that the school board of the house on Tuesday by Representative Daniel, of Troup, that the "school board trust" had contributed $10,000 to the superintendent's campaign expenses.

KLAN IS VICTORIOUS IN SUIT ON NAME

Indianapolis, Ind., March 31.—(AP)—The knights of the Ku Klux Klan organization of Atlanta, holds sole right to the use of the word "Klan," Judge Thomas W. Slick decided in a suit in United States district court here in enjoining the Independent Klan of America from using that name. Judge Slick did not rule on the request for $500,000 damages asked by the plaintiff. That point was considered waived, as the plaintiff did not present cause for damages in its arguments and briefs.

The permanent injunction also prohibits the Independent Klan of America from using the names, "the knights of the Ku Klux Klan," "the invisible empire knights of the Ku Klux Klan," "the Ku Klux Klan," or the "Klan." The Independent Klan, which had its inception in Muncie, Ind., about a year ago, also was permanently enjoined from operating in any manner under any of the names "or any similar or like name or names."

"Everyone knows what organization is meant when he sees or hears the word 'Klan,'" Judge Slick ruled. "It is a well established rule that courts will take judicial notice of what is common knowledge among mankind. The court in this case is bound to know that the word 'Klan' has come to have a secondary meaning, and designated the plaintiff, the Ku Klux Klan, and the word 'Klansman' is a name applied to the members of the plaintiff organization."

"On the big lot on Clarendon avenue which we have purchased we will erect a rambling two-story home of typical English type, with two wings and a house frontage of 85 feet. Its unusual frontage will permit room for the garage and servants' quarters as well as for all the rooms for the family, which are to be in the American type home of today. The home will overlook Lake Avondale, will be provided with all the modern conveniences, and his wife will be inside and out, a 'Home Beautiful'."

Latest Fashion Will Be Shown

A bevy of pretty girls will take part in the opera tea and fashion revue Friday, April 9, at the Atlanta Woman's club building, Peachtree street. Lovely new creations of the Chamberlain-Johnson-DuBoise company will be worn by Miss Willy Carlsie, and Miss Pat Rogers will wear a dainty gown of rich silk and rare embroidery. Other young women will wear stunning new dresses of various styles.

The event will be a forerunner to opera season and styled "showing the latest in fashion and materials will be shown with hats and shoes to match. Nifty, sporty apparel as well as sedate and conservative costumes will be displayed as a feature of the affair.

For the purpose of making the creations exclusive, C. J. Bloodworth, vice president of the Chamberlain-Johnson-DuBoise company, has gone to New York to secure the latest and most modern in fashions which will be exhibited here.

BUFFALO WILL TRY LEADER OF BANDITS

Buffalo, N. Y., March 31.—(AP)—Richard Reese Whittemore and Leon Kraemer, accused of murdering two men and robbing the bank of Buffalo last October, and many other crimes of a similar nature in eastern cities, will be brought to Buffalo tomorrow. New York police informed the local authorities tonight.

SOFT DRINK TAX TO FINANCE BONDS

ing now and will immediately prepare a bill to this end, that all of us who drink of our ordinary beverages in Georgia, will drink the health to education in Georgia.

"I propose a tax of one cent for every five-cent drink whether at the soda fountain or in bottles of every kind and mixtures. This will not cover food drinks such as milk, unless mixed with a syrup or malt, as for instance, chocolate or vanilla malted milk. This will be fair because we are not seeking to tax any particular soft drink, thereby placing the same tax upon all mixed drinks in which syrups and malts are used—whether served over the counter or in bottles.

"A tax like this prevailed during the war and everyone was glad to pay it. A sales tax like this is provided we will be drinking to the health of education but a short while before a sufficient amount is paid into the state treasury for the full payment and discharge of the bonds. Let's all drink to the health of education in Georgia.

"With this provision for repayment, I believe the educational bonds will pass overwhelmingly when put up for passage on the reconsideration."

HOUSE VOTE NEAR ON ENGLISH CASE

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—The House devoted its entire session today to debate on the resolution to impeach Federal Judge English, of Illinois, without reaching a vote.

In an effort to expedite action, however, an agreement was reached to limit debate on and adjournment tonight six hours remained for members to discuss the case. Leaders hope that a vote will be reached by tomorrow night.

Clear definition of the duties of the house as restricted to investigation, similar to those of a grand jury, was brought out by several members as disputes over guilt or innocence of the judge developed.

Speaker Longworth's warning yesterday not to quote the profane language the judge is alleged to have used in court, however, did not prevent members from referring to the forbidden words by initial letters, word pictures and puns.

Representative Hawes, democrat, Missouri, sponsor of the original resolution to impeach the judge's conduct, confessed that "restoration of justice" should be the only object of the house with no element of politics entering into the situation. He asserted the language Judge English is charged with using was indicative of the man.

"There is a phrase which some men use," he said, "a phrase which brings in a man's mother. It is a phrase that no man can use without smiling unless he expects to be shot."

It was to the utterance of this language that Speaker Longworth objected yesterday.

Mexicans Relate Church Problems To House Body

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Charges of religious oppression in Mexico were made in statements of two Mexican citizens presented to the house foreign affairs committee today by Alfred J. Talley, representing the Catholic club of New York.

The statements which told of the closing of a church in Mexico City and of the expulsion of 21 Carmelite nuns from a convent in Mexico City formed part of the evidence submitted in support of the resolution urging the United States to withdraw recognition from Mexico.

E. W. SCRIPPS' WILL OFFERED FOR PROBATE

Hamilton, O., March 31.—(AP)—The will of Edward W. Scripps, late publisher and founder of the Scripps Howard newspapers, who died at sea off the coast of Liberia, Africa, on March 12, was offered for probate today by a representative of Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, former secretary of war, who was its executor.

The will itself is brief. It refers to a larger instrument, however, a trust agreement which was entered into by the late Mr. Scripps with Robert P. Scripps as trustee, on the same day that he will was executed, and under which the properties of the former have since been controlled by the latter.

Robert P. Scripps is named executor as well as trustee.

By the terms of the trust agreement, Mrs. E. W. Scripps, widow of the publisher, is left the life use of Miramar, the large California ranch and winter home of the Scripps family, an annual income of $60,000, and the right to live in the house of the property of the trust estate. A daughter, Mrs. Thomas E. Meany, of Los Angeles, Cal., is left an annuity of $30,000.

The trust agreement also provides that 20 per cent of the annual income of the estate is to be used for purchasing, starting or financing new newspapers and news enterprises, the controlling stock of which is to be held by the trust estate. This fund can also be used for providing stock opportunities for persons in the Scripps-Howard group.

After minor bequests of annuities and a flat sum bequest of $25,000 to Mrs. E. W. Scripps, the entire residuary income of the trust is left to Robert P. Scripps and his children for the life of the estate, which is to remain in existence until the death of the youngest of Robert P. Scripps' children.

No estimate has yet been placed upon the value of the estate, but it is expected that this will be done in the next few weeks, when letters testamentary are applied for.

SENATOR GEORGE REQUESTS SURVEY OF FORT SCREVEN

Washington, March 31.—(Special.)—Senator George introduced a bill in the senate Tuesday authorizing the secretary of war to have a survey made to ascertain the causes of the erosion of the government property at Fort Screven, on Tybee island.

The senator stated that the grounds and buildings at the fort are in danger of inundation due to encroachments by the sea, and it is believed that a survey would be of great benefit to the government in its harbor work at Tybee bar at the mouth of the Savannah river.

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN TO BRIAND

Paris, April 1.—(AP)—The government of Premier Briand early today obtained a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies. The vote was 227 to 130.

The vote came on a motion to remove the clause in the government's financial bill increasing the turnover tax, which is the crux of the bill, for further consideration. The motion was opposed by the minister of finance, Poincaré. For the first time since he accepted the portfolio he raised the question of confidence. The house gave the vote of confidence to the government by a large majority of 97.

The government, barring something unforeseen, now is regarded as out of danger.

April Slated To Bring Ice To Atlanta

March 31.—(AP)—A cold front is expected to bring a steady rain to Atlanta Wednesday night and a stiff northwest gale after giving the city one of the coldest nights of the season. The temperatures ranging well below normal, according to officials of the local branch of the United States weather bureau.

After ushering in balmy spring weather for the first two days of the month, March comes in like a lion. The low temperature is expected to fall to 35 degrees. The minimum for today will be 30 degrees with a maximum of 50 degrees. C. F. von Hermmann, local meteorologist, predicted, late Wednesday.

Fair weather is in prospect for today. Mr. von Hermmann promised, with balmy days in the offing. The present cold wave, which has gripped the south for nearly a week, will be the final episode of winter, according to Mr. von Hermmann.

One of the heaviest rainfalls of the winter season reported during the present storm, with a total precipitation of 2.21 inches. No more rain is in sight for the present, Mr. von Hermmann said.

High winds are scheduled to continue. This is expected to greatly aid the decline in velocity. Mr. von Hermmann predicted that the wind will be from the north, with gusts to 35 miles an hour. BEACH TO ADVISE SHOALS' BOARD

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Bids for the lease of Muscle Shoals received by the joint congressional committee after noon of April 10 will not be considered, and will be forwarded to congress without comment.

The committee in adopting a resolution to that effect today pointed out that telegrams had been sent to all prospective bidders and that ample opportunity had been given to bid, but that there seems to be a disposition to hold back until the eve of April 26, when the committee is required to report to congress.

$5,000 FUND VOTED

Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, finally got a resolution through the senate authorizing the committee to spend $5,000 in negotiating a lease. It is likely that part of this fund will be used to pay Major General Brush as an adviser to the committee. It is understood that the offer of cabinet officers to supply an advisory staff from the government departments has been rejected.

Eton Hooker Heard

The committee today heard Eton H. Hooker, who discussed the provisions of a proposed bill to lease Muscle Shoals on a profit-sharing basis with the government. Previously he has supported what is known as the "Hooker-Walker-Atterbury" bill, but it developed today that W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, had withdrawn from the bill. Mr. Hooker stated that he did not intend to convey his interest in the bill to J. G. White, engineer who built nitrate plant No. 2 at Muscle Shoals, would lease the property for fifty years, make the required 40,000 tons of nitrogen annually and other chemicals and distribute power in cooperation with the government for 25 per cent of the net profit.

HOLLYWOOD CITY FUNDS ENJOINED

Hollywood, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—Hollywood ceased to function as a municipality today, following joint announcement by City Manager Charles H. Windham, and the city commission.

The small incorporated city lying a short distance north of Miami, recently almost doubled its area and population by annexing the townships of Dania and Hallandale, nearby.

The announcement followed institution of two legal suits by taxpayers who have obtained injunctions against further disbursements of city funds, pending court hearing, which was not expected for 60 days.

County Commissioner Bryan and W. C. Kriches, who declare themselves large property owners, have attacked the validity of the city charter and in their bill of complaint, accuse J. W. Young, developer of Hollywood-by-the-Sea of attempting to use city tax revenue in development of his subdivision properties.

The abolishment of the constituted police and engineering departments for a time today presented a perplexing problem. City Manager Windham has wiped out the force of 50 officers and men, and has substituted a group of eight or ten patrolmen, with no police chief nor titled superiors.

Mr. Heflin, who declared himself a large property owner, has attacked the validity of the city charter and in their bill of complaint, accuse J. W. Young, developer of Hollywood-by-the-Sea of attempting to use city tax revenue in development of his subdivision properties.

$60,000 LOOT IS WON BY CHINESE PIRATES

London, March 31.—(AP)—Chinese pirates have captured another Chinese steamer on the high seas, alleged it into the famous pirate rendezvous in Bias bay in south China, robbed the passengers and deckhands, says a Hong Kong dispatch to The Daily Mail.

The steamer was the China Merchants company's Hainkong. The pirates were disguised as passengers. During the voyage from Shanghai to Hong Kong they seized the vessel, robbed the passengers with ropes and robbed them of booty valued at about $60,000 chiefly money and jewelry. Many of the passengers were immigrants from the United States, who had a substantial amount of their savings.

A similar act of piracy was enacted last December on board the steamer Tugchong while it was proceeding from Shanghai for Tientsin. The pirates had boarded the steamer at Shanghai. They did not reveal their identity until the vessel had proceeded some distance northward in the Chinese sea. Then they took possession of the Tugchong, shot and wounded the captain and held up the passengers.

Keith's Forsyth.
Variety that includes about everything that is in the vaudeville list is to be seen at Keith's Forsyth theater the last half of this week in the new program which begins Thursday. It comprises the revue type of act: comedy, ventriloquism and athletic stunts as well as some good dancing. The program is headed by Jim Kilpatrick, former Atlanta vaudeville star, who is well known here where he has many friends. He returns to the scene of his first professional engagement, and the Forsyth theater is expected that this will be done in the next few weeks, when letters testamentary are applied for.

Loew's Grand.
Loew's Grand theater this week is offering a bill of vaudeville of extraordinary merit which is headed by the "Yip Yip Yaphankers," 10 soldier comedians, appearing in the act in a program of harmony songs while several acrobatic feats are performed. Another popular act is comedy offering presented by Young and Gray, Elizabeth Friedman's Elida Ballet is a pretty dancing turn which six girls in white and blue costumes, Austin Goetz and Fae Duffy also present a pleasing little skit in which they feature some whirling numbers. Pretty Bee Star, late feature attraction with the Sells-Floto circus, scores one of the biggest hits on the program with her sensational aerial cloud swing. The Loew's feature picture, "The Everlasting Whisper," a gripping western story of love and romance.

The Metropolitan.
Over across the railroad tracks, Sharon Kimm, aged eight, and Mickey one year her superior, were just beginning to realize the trials of life. Sharon had to support a shuffling father and mother who were endeavoring to provide an existence for his grandparents. Then time separated them and years later they met again. This time Sharon and Mickey were well known as an author.

The Rialto.
Madge Bellamy and Kenneth Harlan play the stellar roles in the screen version of Peter B. Kyne's "The Golden Strain," the feature picture at the Rialto theater this week. Ann Pennington, former diminutive dancer of the Follies; Holbert Bosworth and Lawford Davidson are prominent in the supporting cast.

West End Theater.
"Honor thy father and thy mother" is the lesson taught in "His People," the Universal Jewel at the West End theater today and Friday.

Here is a story in which pathos and humor are skillfully blended to make one of the strongest stories ever screened; the blind faith of a loving father in his peripatetic son, the loyalty of the misadventured young man and the final realization of the patriarchal father that even a prizefighter can be good.

81 Theater.
A big company of twenty-five fun-makers composed "Shake Your Feet," Carmouche and Mitchell's colored musical comedy company which will provide the entertainment at a big mid-night frolic at the 81 theater Friday night at 10:45. Manager Charles P. Bailey is of the opinion that a bigger treat is in store for his patrons Friday night than ever before.

Cleo Mitchell, women's world champion wooden shoe dancer, is slated to be the hit of the program.

Cost Grant and Kid Wilson, famous record artists, and co-stars of such hits as "Come on Out, and Do That Thing" and "Dirty Mistrater" and numerous others, have prepared a special program of their own compositions. Tickets for the Friday night frolic are on sale at Chas. Five Points and at the theater, 81 Decatur street.

Roy Grimes' Hitting Features Loose Game For Quitman Fans

Love and Jacobs, Newest Among Cracker Flingers, Are Given Warm and Hearty Welcome By Sluggers From the North.

BY CLARENCE NIXON, Staff Correspondent.

Quitman, Ga., March 31.—(Special.)—With Roy Grimes leaning on the baseball for two home runs, a triple and a single, which is one of the greatest hitting feats ever produced in print for the edification of those who follow the fortunes of baseball, there is small wonder that Hank Gowdy leaned back tonight and had a good time telling the folks how his Columbus club of the American association defeated the Atlanta champions of the Southern league by a score of 13 to 6. It seems that Hank had been figuring on a lot of trouble in overcoming this obstacle and he almost had it. The Crackers were banging base hits about the lot in reckless fashion, but they did not make quite enough of them to make the afternoon a successful enterprise and suffered a great defeat.

Stenlund, the former member of the Chicago Cubs, started the afternoon on the mound for the Columbus club, but he gave way to Fishbaugh after the Crackers had begun to solve the offerings of the first-named.

Ruel Love, whose performances have been greatly to the satisfaction of the Atlanta club since he came to Thomasville from the Crackers, started proceedings for the southerners, but he was greeted with such gusto that Jacobs, the newest addition of the southpaw staff, was sent to relieve him.

Buckeyes Open.
The Buckeyes opened with a two-run count in the first inning. The Crackers retaliated in their half of the inning with a single run. Columbus scored two runs in the second and the Crackers tied the count in the third by scoring three. Columbus, however, laughed off that advantage by scoring a counter in their half.

In the fourth inning the Crackers again came through with a run and the Columbus club was held scoreless. The fifth saw each club score a run. Both teams were scoreless in the sixth, but in the seventh the Ohio team broke loose and scored three runners, taking a lead which never was headed. Columbus scored four more in the eighth and called it a day.

The northerners belted out 17 hits to 12 for the Crackers. The Atlanta team committed one error to none for the Buckeyes.

The first three men up for the Crackers got a single apiece and scored one run in the first inning. Durocher led off with a single for the Crackers and was followed by Sumpter Clarke, who shoved Durocher to second on his hit. After Clarke came "Uncle" Wilbur Good who also smashed one for a single and scored Durocher.

How They Won.
Regan and Grimes accounted for two runs for Columbus in their half of the first frame. Regan went to first on a fielders' choice. Grimes came through with a three-bagger and scored Regan for the first run for the winners. Strand was the next man at the plate and got a single which resulted in a run by Grimes.

The Crackers failed to score in the second frame while the Columbus ball tossers turned in two more counters. Meuter and Stenlund brought in these scores. After a lot of hitting the Crackers collected three runs in the third inning, while Grimes drove one over the fence for the only run for Columbus in this inning. In the fourth and fifth innings the Crackers marked up two runs, while their opponents came through with only one in the sixth and one in the seventh.

The one run in the fifth frame was the last counter for the Crackers and they only got two hits, one in the fifth and one in the sixth innings and no runs.

In the seventh and eighth innings the Columbus sluggers batted out seven hits and made them good for

TECH ENTERS SECOND ROUND AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., March 31.—(Special.) Tech High, of Atlanta, Ga., sent its basketball team into the second round of the national interscholastic championship tournament here this afternoon by winning a victory over Tech High of Omaha, Neb., 22 to 16, in a slow game. Omaha exhibited little defense, but neither of the quints, according to critics, showed championship ability.

Four goals were caged from the field for Atlanta by Cook, left forward, whose work was outstanding. Mitholland, Omaha guard, was the star for his team. The Atlanta court team led throughout the contest.

Fitchburg, Mass., champions of New England, overcame a 10-8 lead at the half and defeated Billings, Mont., 32 to 20.

One of the most ideal playing combinations in the tournament thus far enabled the fast Wheeler (Miss.), aggregation to snow under Reno, Nev., 46 to 13.

Mississippi was fourth place winner last year. S. D. defeated Danville, Ky., 37-11, in a one-sided game. The Kentucky boys did not make a field goal in the first half.

Saintrooke, Pa., defeated the Latter Day Saints' team of Salt Lake City, Utah, 39 to 26. Gaylord, Minn., defeated Memphis, 25 to 24.

Twenty Years of American Golf

BY JIM BARNES
(American Champion, Player, Teacher, Student of Golf.)
(Copyright, 1926, by North American Newspaper Alliance and The Constitution.)

CHAPTER XIII.
For a long time I had been formulating plans for going back to the other side and trying for the British championship. The possibility of winning that highly prized title was a rather thrilling thing to contemplate. I had, of course, left the country as a gangling youth and the possibility that I might go back and win certainly made material for a glorious dream.

The spring of 1920 brought the opportunity. The British ones were to be revived that spring after a lapse of five years. The Sunset Hill club was quite willing to have me go and that made it unanimous. Walter Hagen, too, was anxious to make a try for the big prize. As winner of our championship the preceding year, he was still the title holder when the British open came on, so the task of us, with the well wishes of thousands of American golfers, started on the first of a series of drives for the British title, which have proved extraordinarily successful.

This was not the first time that players from this side had gone over to try their skill. Back before the days of McGraw, Mike Brady, Tom McNamara and possibly one of two others had made one or more trips over. But none of them had fared very well. In those days the British professionals, and British golfers generally, felt little concern over the entry of players from this side. Britain was historically the outstanding figure in the golf world, and the idea that America could produce players to challenge them on their own grounds, appeared to them little short of ridiculous.

Things have changed in this respect now, however, and one common topic of conversation in golfing matters over there just now, is why are American golfers better than British golfers?

The championship was played that year on the links of the Royal Cinque Ports Golf club at Deal. We arrived some time before the event was to start, and our appearance created no little attention. Golf writers for the papers especially took occasion to interview and sound us out on all sorts of lines, and in some instances they misinterpreted the things we said. At any rate they quoted us as making statements that certainly did not jibe with our views and sentiments.

British Impressions.
We played several practice rounds prior to the qualifying rounds for the championship and while neither of us broke any course records, we both seemed to be hitting the ball well enough, and the British players came to feel, before the start of play, that we might have to be reckoned with before the fun was over.

As matters actually turned out they had little to fear, as neither of us seriously threatened to win. I eventually finished in sixth place, six strokes back of George Duncan, who won with 203. My best round of the four was a 74, and twice I took 79. But at that I was the only player in the field to break 80 on each start. The trouble was, I was not able to get in one or two real low scoring rounds.

Hagen had even more trouble. It was his first experience on a genuine seaside course, and conditions during the week were typical of all this means. There was a strong wind sweeping

Amateurs Play At Druid Hills

Stephens will oppose Zeazy Rainwater and T. P. Hinman in a best ball match in a dinner tournament. Following these will start in the order named, at five-minute intervals: J. D. Welborn, H. S. Colinsworth, vs. S. R. Bridges, W. C. Spikes, Phil L. Eagle, C. N. Hughes, vs. W. A. Fuller, Lynn Fort; M. D. Huff, R. K. Rambo, vs. Julius Hughes, W. F. Gillooley; Joe Burton, John R. FAVORITES WIN IN AUGUSTA TENNIS MEET

Augusta, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Favorites generally advanced to the semi-finals as a result of the second round matches played in the annual South Atlantic Tennis tournament here today. The single upset from the viewpoint of the gallery was the defeat of Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, a protégé of William Tilden, Philadelphia, who lost to George O'Connell, Chicago, 10-8, 2-6, 8-6.

Tilden easily disposed of Kenneth Bourne, New York, in two straight sets, 6-0, 6-0. The champion upset him along with Bourne and permitted him to take the lead in several games, but always speeded up enough to win.

Jerry Lane, New York, former captain of the Columbia university team, eliminated Walter Thomas, Philadelphia, another of Tilden's proteges, 6-2, 6-1.

Takeichi Harada defaulted to W. F. Cohen, Jr., Kansas City, The Japanese premier tennis star, who suffered a sprained thumb last Monday while playing in an exhibition game with Tilden, was forced to place the injured member in a cast and was not able to play any more this week.

Rutledge Capers, Augusta, was the only local favorite to stay in the competition. He defeated Fred Haggis, New York, 6-1, 6-0.

Howard Voshell, Brooklyn, eliminated Frank Capers, Augusta, 6-1, 6-1, while A. H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, Mass., won from J. M. McGill, Asheville, 6-0, 6-3.

Sandy Weiner, Philadelphia, who often plays partner with Tilden in doubles, defeated W. T. Ackerland, Asheville, N. C., 11-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Professionals Begin Season's Schedule At Spiller's Today

Cleveland Indians and Toronto Open Exhibition Schedule With New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers Following.

The first professional baseball of the year will be presented Atlanta baseball fans at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when the Cleveland Indians, formerly champions of the American league, and world's champions, appear in an exhibition game at Spiller's field against the Toronto team of the International league.

In spite of the fact that the Indians have finished far down in the race a great many times and have won a pennant and a world's championship besides that, followers of baseball always have considered the team led by Tris Speaker to be one of the best in baseball.

Included in the personnel of such a team are Joe and Luke Sewell, each of whom is a well-known former Southern athlete. When these two brothers were students at the University of Alabama they were idols of southern fans and since their graduation into the class of major league athletes they have been acclaimed two of the greatest of ball players.

Headed by George Herman Ruth, the world's greatest baseball attraction, the New York Yankees will square off with the Brooklyn Nationals Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Spiller's in the first of two games between these teams. The second is set for Saturday at the same time and the same place.

Great Sluggers.
The Yanks have collected the finest group of sluggers in baseball in so far as their home-run hitting is concerned.

Landis Favors Resinon Ball

Belleair, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—Judge Keneas Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball today handed down his first official ruling on the resin ball. In a letter to John H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association of Minor League Clubs, the judge states that the resin is not a matter of league contention, but merely an aid to the pitcher as an individual.

He states that any pitcher in any league can demand the drying powder, for use on his hands only, and under the rules of baseball he perfectly within his rights.

Glenna May Not Go to England

Charlotte, N. C., March 31.—(AP)—Glenna Collett, national woman's golf champion, here for an exhibition match, today said that she was still undecided as to whether she would play in the English tournaments this year or not.

Miss Collett added that she would "make up" her mind definitely upon her return to Providence, R. I., late this week. The champion was defeated in the finals of the north and south women's amateur tournament in by Miss Louise Fordyce, 2 and 1.

100% Virgin Wool Fabrics

One of the assets so prominent in the new spring

KIRSCHBAUM SUITS

Notice that we do not merely say all-wool fabrics. When we speak of "100% Virgin Wool" we mean fabrics woven from the original fleece....from the freshly clipped fibres that come from the sheep's backs, without other matter added....without substitutes.

That is what you get in the Kirschbaum suits for spring. The real thing—pure virgin wool. No "doctored" or "mixed" fabrics—no substitutes. Such fabrics have beauty, color and life you don't see and don't get in ordinary cloths, and as results show these fabrics make an ideal foundation for the attractive garments the Kirschbaum experts have made for men and young men this spring.

Farm Work in South Was Delayed Last Week By Cold, Wet Weather

Some Corn, Cotton and Much Sugar Cane Was Planted in Georgia; Tobacco Vigorous.

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—The department of agriculture in its review of conditions in southern states for the week ended yesterday said that very little additional crop planting was possible, although some was seeded locally as far north as southern South Carolina, and progress was reported in his work in parts of southern Alabama. Much plowing was done in Tennessee and the south Atlantic states.

The week was generally too cool and wet for garden and truck crops. In Atlantic coast districts plums and peaches are coming into bloom as far north as southern Virginia. Citrus are blooming heavily in Florida.

Conditions by states: Maryland—Wheat conditions generally rather backward. Early truck being planted and some peas are up. Oats and clover sown, a few strawberry plants set, and maple syrup and sugar being made. Virginia—Good progress in farm work. Winter grains, pastures and meadows in good condition. Potato planting about finished. Fruit prospects continued good. North Carolina—Frost in central and north with some damage to fruit. Too cool for strawberries and truck. Considerable work done; some corn planted. Potatoes more than usual. Wheat, rice and oats doing fairly well.

South Carolina—Spring plowing rather backward. Vegetation greenish perceptibly. Winter cereals and truck crops, garden and truck satisfactory. Lettuce all planted, and potatoes and beans coming up. Some early cotton planted. Cold damage to fruit slight.

Georgia—Week unfavorable for general farming operations. Some corn and cotton planted. Much sugar cane planted. Tobacco in beds small but vigorous.

Florida—Early corn fair stand; planting corn, cotton and peanuts continued. Melons and cantaloupes backward. Transplanting tobacco. Strawberries fair. Oats doing well. Shipping cabbage, celery and other truck. Citrus bloom heavy; satsuma groves fair to good.

Alabama—Too cool for germination and growth; considerable plowing. Cotton planting good progress; corn planting beginning. Some corn up in extreme south. Planting gardens, potatoes and bedding sweet corn. Canned fruit only fair progress. Some damage to fruit by frost.

Mississippi—Frost in north hindered some corn and cotton planting. Delayed truck development. Pastures fair to good growth.

Louisiana—Another unfavorable cold, wet week delayed farm work. Considerable corn in ground; germination poor. Little progress in preparing land for cotton and practically no planting done. Seed case rotting where planted late or still in beds. Fruit trees in good condition.

Arkansas—Gardens and fruit suffered serious injury from freeze and bulk of peaches thought killed. Wheat and oats improved and condition good. Some corn planted and potatoes coming up. Pastures good; alfalfa excellent.

Tennessee—Little planting done during week. Germination of corn, clover and pastures good. Truck, peaches, plums and pears badly damaged in north; truck and some fruit damaged in central portions; uninjured in south. Apples unharmed.

Kentucky—Wheat, rice and grass good condition. Sowing tobacco plant beds pushed, but too wet for most plowing. Peaches damaged somewhat in south, but otherwise fruit believed mostly safe.

Texas—Progress and condition of pastures, winter wheat, oats and winter truck fair to very good but spring truck and corn poor. Germination of corn poor and planting at standstill. Progress and condition of early cotton very good in extreme south but little planted elsewhere. Farm work at standstill during week.

From April 1924 to the middle of last month the average price of fifty representative stocks advanced from 82 to 139 or 57 points. Between the middle of last month there was a decline from 139 to yesterday's level of 109, a drop in six weeks of 30 points wiping out 52 per cent of the advance scored over a period of two years.

With over 6,000,000 shares of stock changing hands yesterday and the day before, the bears decided overnight that the market for the time being was overbought and that hence it was time to cover. Short covering, together with buying by bargain-hunters, was responsible for today's price recovery.

Advances in the stock market such as the one running to February 13 and declines such as has occurred since the middle of February are witnessed because the average trader in the stock market has better hindsight than foresight. For example, this morning before the opening of the stock market Horahower & Warrick gave this advice to their customers here, at the same time putting the message on the wires to out-of-town offices:

"We believe it is apparent that the present reactionary phase of the market is being overcome. It is our guess that the first worldwide rally movement since March 4 will appear in a period of general weakness during this morning session."

Prices Go Up.

After the higher opening this morning prices began to decline through profit-taking on the part of those fortunate enough to buy at yesterday's low prices and also on resumed short selling. In this early decline some stocks went below yesterday's closing. However, after a period of dullness short covering and bargain hunting buying was resumed, turning prices upward. For the first hour the turnover was 715,000 shares or at a daily rate of 3,500,000 shares. This pace, however, was not maintained.

While the feeling in the best quarters here is that the stock market is closing last night was oversold it is also felt that the low average price for 1926 has as yet been registered. The oversold stock market should rally in the morning.

But with the short interest reduced or eliminated, the technical condition of the market will be weakened to the extent where fresh short selling will likely occur in anticipation of a slowing down in general trade not yet discounted stockmarket-wise.

Today's weekly reviews on the Iron and Steel industry state that while sentiment throughout the country is not uniformly optimistic over continuation of activities at the present rate, the outlook for the future is not bright. Following the publication of these views from recognized spokesmen for the trade however a further cut of 50 cents in scrap steel was reported. The trend of scrap prices is closely watched by the steel and iron trade.

The Day in Finance

By R. L. BARNUM

New York, March 31.—Stocks opened from one to five points higher this morning and Wall street was filled with rumors of overnight conferences of bankers planning organized stock market support. From trustworthy sources it was learned that there was no truth in these rumors. The facts are that there was no need for bankers' support.

From April 1924 to the middle of last month the average price of fifty representative stocks advanced from 82 to 139 or 57 points. Between the middle of last month there was a decline from 139 to yesterday's level of 109, a drop in six weeks of 30 points wiping out 52 per cent of the advance scored over a period of two years.

NO DECISION MADE K. P.'S OF SOUTHEAST ON GEORGIA JUDGE GATHER HERE FRIDAY

Leading officials of Knights of Pythias of the southeast will gather in Atlanta Friday and Saturday for conferences. Banquets and luncheons will be entertainment features.

Will G. Moore, grand chancellor of

Washington, March 31.—(Special.)
The controversy in the Georgia delegation in congress over the bill creating a new judicial district is still unsettled, despite a meeting Wednesday at which house members voted seven to five, for placing the Valdosta division, the center of the dispute, in the southern district.

After this ballot, a motion was offered to make the vote unanimous, to which all agreed but Representative Lankford, who is seeking to have the Valdosta division in the middle district.

Lankford said he would not be bound by this vote, since the senators had not voted, and his previous statement that he would abide by the will of the majority was conditioned upon the entire delegation participating, including the senators. He said however, that he probably would not carry the fight to the floor of the house, but will not bind himself to such an agreement.

He explained that he intended to seek inclusion of Valdosta in the middle district in the senate which if effected would require that the member be sent back to the house, and if those in opposition refused to recede, there would be a conference, where there would be another opportunity of getting what he wanted.

The meeting Wednesday was not harmonious, and there was considerable maneuvering. It was learned.

It was held behind closed doors.

Senator Harris was present, but Senator George was not. Harris did not vote, it being agreed that it was a house proposition. Harris explained afterward that at least three of those who had voted against including the Valdosta division in the middle district, which he favors, but said that they would agree to whatever disposition was made in the bill as finally passed by the senate, and he pointed out that the senate measure as drafted by Senator George proposed to place Valdosta in the middle district.

The situation that developed at the meeting of the delegation Wednesday will be placed before the subcommittee of the house judiciary committee.

Starkville, Miss., March 31.—(P)— J. L. Bridges, of Arkabutla, Miss., a student in Mississippi A. & M. college, was killed and three other students were injured, one seriously, in an explosion of blasting powder stored by the students in a room of the college dormitory today. The injured are T.
M. Seitz, L. J. Stallings and F. C.
Smith, all dormitory residents. Seitz suffered burns on his body and face, and his condition was regarded as serious.

Bridges was blown out of a fourth-story window by the explosion and was instantly killed.

Dr. B. F. Walker, president of the college, announced tonight that he would begin an investigation to determine who brought the powder into the dormitory.

W. C. Slate, school commissioner of the second ward, stated that the special audit of records of the school department probably could not be completed before that time, that he would not be ready to begin the audit until the auditor's report is available.

Courtland S. Winn, assistant city attorney, has been retained by the board of education to represent the board in the case of the school department which was charged with the murder of a child.

Among other things charged, Ritchie is accused of "excessive and unauthorized expenditures" and "injection of personal politics," "enmity and vindictiveness" in the school system and "usurpation of authority."

Resolutions asking that the city of Atlanta take immediate steps to establish a detention home for girls and that a corps of police women be employed to handle cases in which women are involved, were passed Wednesday at a meeting of the Civic Council of Women, Mrs. J. B. Andrews, city president, presided at the session which was held in the council chamber at the city hall.

"Law Enforcement" was the subject of several addresses by prominent Atlanta officials. More than 50 men and women from the city and county were present.

Among those who spoke were Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Alderman William B. Hartsfield, chairman of the police committee, and Charles McNair, who recently launched a drive
"clean up Atlanta." Vileyn B. Moore, former chairman of Fulton county commission; Sheriff James H. Lowry and Captain George Hope, member of the Fulton commission.

New Auction Bridges Rules To Aid in Simplifying Game

BY FRANK GETTY.
New York, March 31.—Even for those of us who constantly have to ask "what's trump?" there is much of interest in the new "laws of auction bridge, 1926," which will govern the game as played in the United States during the current year.

Aside from the method of scoring honors, the changes from the 1925 rules are not radical. It is in the matter of trump and no trump honors that even those who reduce their hedge to its simplest form must take notice.

After next Monday, April 5, when the new laws become effective, no discrepancy in his contract or to the game when it comes to score trump honors.

"Simple honors" count 30 points, whatever the trump. Four honors divided, 40 points; five divided, 50 points.

Four honors in one hand count 80 points; four in one hand and five in partner's, 90 points; five in one hand, 100 points.

"No trump" honors remain unchanged, as does the scoring of tricks.
The purpose of the new rules is to eliminate further the difference between suits, an aim of bridge lawmakers since the days when spades were the only suit, and hearts, 8 and hearts 8, and "no trump" as yet unheard of.

Hereafter, the rule was that a declarer who had revoked was not permitted to make his contract.

There is no provision in the 1926 laws for an optional honor score penalty. Two tricks must be taken for the first revoke and one for each subsequent revoke.

Religious leaders Wednesday were very optimistic over plans for the remaining days of the campaign which will be brought to a close Sunday at the Baptist assembly with an all-denominational mass meeting. Final reports will be heard at that time.

More than 600 members have been added to Baptist church rolls as a result of inspirational sermons by noted visiting evangelists and religious leaders who are occupying local church pulpits daily. Special song services are being held in practically all churches.

In many sections of the city these services are taking the form of home prayer meetings.

past two days services are being well and the simultaneous evangelistic campaign will result in lasting benefit to the city, particularly to those thousands who have attended reguday at the midday service at the Arcade. His text was "Friendship of Jesus." He was heard by a large gathering of business men and women who passed during lunch hour to hear him. Community singing also was a feature of the service.

Dr. Ben R. Lacy, pastor of Central Presbyterian church, will deliver a sermon on "The Last Supper" at 12:15 o'clock today at the pre-Easter service at the Peachtree Arcade. The meeting is being held in

DR. LACY SPEAKS AT 1000 MEETING LA FOLLETTE TRAPS BAKING COMBINE

New York, March 31.—If the injunction sought by the department of justice against the Ward Baking interests was granted, it would be "wholly ineffective as far as destroying the bread trust is concerned," Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, told the citizens' mass meeting here Wednesday night, which was called in protest against the alleged bread trust. His address was broadcast over radio.

La Follette charged the administration with "gross negligence in permitting the formation of this colossal bread trust," and criticized the department of justice for its continued inaction. He said the injunction proceedings at Baltimore, where the people were not fooled by Ward's proposal to distribute profits above 7 per cent to charity.

"This outrageous attempt to camouflage monopoly with false charity disgusted the nation," La Follette said.
In connection with postwar profits in the injunction proceedings, La Follette asked his audience if they ever had heard of a delay in an injunction proceeding against a labor union?
You never did and you never will.

"Furthermore, even if this injunction is granted it will be wholly ineffective as far as destroying the bread trust is concerned. William B.
Ward today has a monopoly power over the nation's bread through his control of the National Continental and General Baking corporations.

"There is common talk that the department of justice will enter into a consent decree with Ward. Should this prove true, it will be a victory

Tannhauser Rich in Arias Beautiful and Familiar To the Public Generally

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

Is there one who ever thinks "Tannhauser" who does not immediately begin humming "The Pilgrim's Chorus"? This, however, is by no means the only air that comes to mind in the thoughts connected with this opera, a romantic one of three acts.

Wagner, the Great.

This opera was first produced at the Royal house in Dresden in 1845, with Wagner himself leading the orchestra. It was Wagner, you know, who brought the new Romantic school, founded by Berlioz, to its present state of perfection. Wagner changed the whole course of opera and today he is considered the greatest of all composers of the 19th century.

The Story.

The plot of Tannhauser is taken from an old German tradition which centers about the castle where the landgraves of the 13th century encouraged the peaceful contests between the Minnesingers and the knightly poets of the period.

Close to the castle was a dreary elevation filled with caverns in which lived Holda, the Goddess of Spring, confused in some way with the Grecian Venus.

The first act opens with a scene in this court with Tannhauser, the knight and minstrel, under the sway and had influence of Venus, Elizabeth, the daughter of Hermann, the landgrave, is in love with this bold knight. Wolfram, a minstrel, is in love with Elizabeth.

In one of the minstrel contests Tannhauser enters into the lists with the other minnesingers and impelled by the subtle influence of Venus sings of the attractions of carnal pleasures. Here is to be heard the wonderful bacchanale music, the uproarious, beautiful drinking song when all glasses are raised to Bacchus, god of revelry. Tannhauser is sung by Rudolph Loubenthal.

Walter of Vogelweide replies with a song to virtue and a fight ensues in which Elizabeth saves the life of her lover, Tannhauser.

Vivid Settings.

The second scene is placed in a valley above which towers the castle of Wartburg, home of Elizabeth.

A young shepherd, perched upon a rock, sings a pastoral invocation to Venus, the strains of his pipe—an obligato on the oboe—waiving about the chorus of the Pilgrims as they come along the mountain paths from the castle.

This is a most brilliant scene, closing with the lament of Tannhauser, intermingled with the receding song of the Pilgrims, the ringing of the church bells in the valley below and the merry note of the hunters' horns. Here is a beautiful set piece sung with the solo of Wolfram sung by Lawrence Tibbett, a great Atlanta favorite. Here also, Florence Easton, as Elizabeth, sings a wonderful recitative, joyous and rolling in the half-care-free days of her youth. In this act comes the Grand March, the bold rhythm, animation and spirit of which quickens one in many public concerts of the day.

And here, too, Lawrence Tibbett sings that enchanting fantasy—every college girl's ambition—"Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star," the gem of the whole opera.

Certainly in Tannhauser, the greatest of all Wagnerian operas, extraordinary power, highest vocal and dramatic qualities are required in its presentation.

Deceiving Appearance.

Had one chanced along the suburban road leading to the Brookhaven Sunday afternoon and witnessed a certain procedure easily seen from any passing automobile, one might have feared he was about to witness a witness to a suicide pact, mayhap.

Here were to be plainly seen two of the most outstanding pupils, Peter Lund and Stewart Barrett, over in the size of the tall pipes, all entangled with a piece of rope in a most suspicious manner. The boys were in a very unusual pose with no one else in the picture, absolutely.

And in the crotch of a nearby tree was to be found the answer, a kodak aimed squarely at the two guilty culprits!

These two Beau Brummels, while on their Sunday afternoon stroll toward Brookhaven, having come armed with the family kodak, decided they must have a Damon and Pythias re-

Miss Bugbee Weds H. Jefferson Reid At Quiet Ceremony

Much interest centers in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Helen Marguerite Bugbee to Harry Jefferson Reid by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Bugbee.

The wedding took place very quietly at high noon at the home of Dr. Charles W. Daniel, pastor of the First Baptist church. The ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate family.

The lovely bride wore a becoming model of bois de rose georgette, trimmed in bands of satin of the same shade, and many small buttons. With this she wore a hat of the same color. Her coat was a darker shade of rose, trimmed in summer ermine. She wore a corsage of pink sweetpeas.

Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Reid will be at home at 27 East Third street.

Mrs. Reid, who formerly resided in Newark, N. J., has made her home in Atlanta for the past several months with her mother, Mrs. Fred G. Bugbee, at 263 West Peachtree street. She is of a brunette type, possessing a charming personality. She was educated at Stafford High school in Stafford Springs, Conn.

Mr. Reid came to Atlanta from Newark, N. J., some months ago, since when he has been connected with The Constitution.

Mr. Reid served with the A. E. F. during the world war in the 10th infantry of First division, and spent two years in France.

Mr. Reid is a fluent linguist and will teach classes in French, German and Spanish, having taught in various parts of the United States, and also in Europe, where he was educated. He is a lecturer of unusual ability, being splendidly informed in the various phases of Americanization and immigration. Mr. Reid will continue his literary and journalistic work in which field he is deeply interested.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomel powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. No matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calomel powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—(adv.)

ATTRACTIVE WOMEN

If You Must Be Attractive You Must Be Healthy

A beautiful woman is always admired. There are many types of beauty. But no woman can be truly beautiful unless she is healthy. Radiant vitality is always attractive. A plain woman's features may be.

Many a woman has found her health improved through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Weakness, loss of weight, and a pale complexion were a few things of which Mrs. J. C. Taylor of Box 211, Tallahassee, Florida, complained before she started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I could not even sit down and talk to a friend for any length of time," she states. "I would forget what I was talking about and felt so blue." Mrs. Taylor writes, "I can do all my housework now and I feel just fine."

Advice to Girls

on correct skin care—as urged today by leading skin specialists

By NORMA TALMADGE

Just one rule to follow—start for one week in this way. It has brought naturally clear complexions to thousands.

DON'T think a naturally clear skin is beyond you—or, that one comes only as the result of costly beauty treatments. Modern beauty science proves otherwise.

Printed below is a rule anyone can follow without bother or expense. Authorities say it has given more women the charm of natural skin loveliness than any other method known. It has almost entirely supplanted the artificial methods of yesterday.

In your own interest, try it for one week. Note the improvement that comes when your pores are properly cleansed of their accumulations with the gentle lather of Palmolive in this way.

THE RULE IN SKIN CARE THAT EXPERTS URGE

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Follow these rules day in and day out. Your skin will be soft and lovely.

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only; to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

It costs but 10¢ the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use will bring. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Art Association's Exhibition Is Highly Praised by Mrs. Drew

BY MRS. FARNSWORTH DREW

The Atlanta Art association opened its annual exhibition Wednesday afternoon in the gallery of the Atlanta Woman's club.

An exceptional feature of this exhibition is that there is no jury of selection, each artist being assigned a limited amount of space. A hanging committee may do many strange things, but the Art association has eliminated all this, and every picture seems to have been hung to its best advantage.

One outstanding feature of the afternoon was the presentation of the prizes. The Belle Newman Howard prize, given by Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Chipley, went very justly to Mrs. Marjorie Bush Brown. The picture was a very well drawn portrait of a young boy, Mrs. Samuel M. Inman's prize was awarded to Wilbur Kurtz, for a charming canvas entitled the "Georgia Cotton Press."

The exhibition opens Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to the public, and will close at 5 o'clock.

The Frank Lowenstein prize was given to Mrs. E. Oliver, her subject being "The Fountain, Algiers." Honorable mention was awarded Ralph M. Britt for a portrait of Carl Zimmerman. This freshly painted head is one of the most interesting ones in the exhibition. "In Grandmother's Gown," by Abby Butler, also won honorable mention.

The students work followed the wall space along the stairway, and was well worth stopping to see. Two prizes were awarded, one for still life, by Miss Virginia Baker, very well drawn and well executed, while the other prize went to a study in color contrasts, by Helen Avis Howard. There should have been a third prize given to "Color Contrasts," by Frances Brown.

The exhibition opens Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to the public, and will close at 5 o'clock.

Women Voters Will Sponsor Benefit Bridge.

Practically all reservations for tables have been made for the benefit bridge, which is being sponsored by Mrs. Benjamin M. Smith for the League of Women Voters to be given on Wednesday, April 7, from 2:30 to 5, at the Georgian Terrace. Many lovely prizes have come in this week and the committee on prizes reports promises of more.

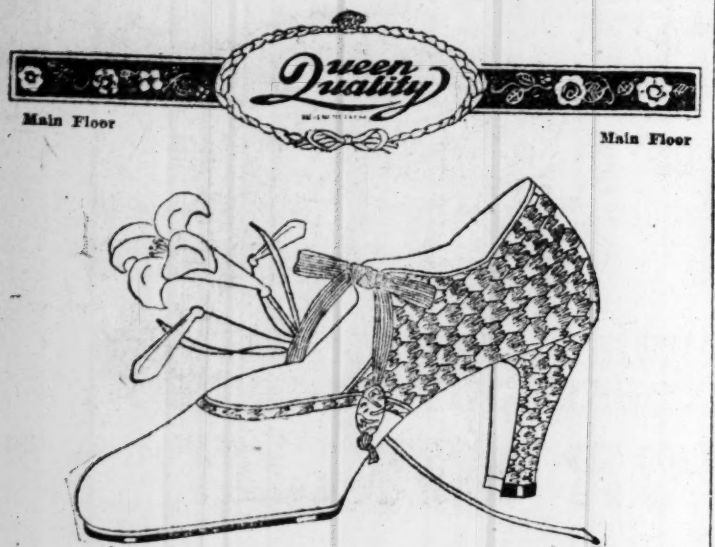

Due to the large number of reservations that have been made for this occasion there will be a shortage of tables, and all league members are urged to loan their tables. By calling Mrs. Smith over Hemlock 1970-J arrangements will be made to have someone call for tables and return them.

Church Circle Plans Easter Egg Hunt.

There will be an Easter egg hunt on Saturday, April 3, at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. C. Cassels, 1362 Peachtree street, given by circle No. 6 of the First Presbyterian church. Admission will be 10 cents.

Girls' High P.T.A. Plans Rummage Sale.

The P.T.A. of Girls' High school will hold a rummage sale on Saturday, April 10. All mothers are urged to send in all rummage possible by this date.

Thursday's Calendar Ushers In First Month of Spring

Today ushers in the first month of spring, April, with its showers and its wealth of lovely blossoms, with its quota of charming brides. There are those who make of it a day of practical joking and unprovoked, with boys and girls the world over playing "April fool" jokes on each other. Our little French brothers and sisters call it "D'Avril Poisson," which translated means "April fish," but the time-old jokes are much the same.

In the day's social whirl the April bride-to-be takes her rightful place in the center of things, being the feted guest at luncheons, teas and dinners. Among the number thus honored are Miss Martha Boynton, Miss Will Hawkins, Miss Frances White, Miss Elizabeth Humphrey and Miss Irma Heath.

Other honor guests of the day include Dr. and Mrs. Ashby Jones, who will leave Friday for St. Louis, and Misses Ella Plummer and Virginia Moore, of Washington, D. C.

Centering the interest of the army set will be the bridge-supper at which Captain and Mrs. Glenn C. Ross will entertain at Fort McPherson.

Misses Washburn Given Luncheon.

Misses Mary and Carolyn Washburn, of New York, who arrived in Atlanta Tuesday evening to be the guests of Mrs. Gilbert Marshall, were honored at an informal luncheon on Wednesday by Mrs. Marshall.

Others invited for the occasion included Mrs. Lloyd Tompkins and her guest, Mrs. Clara Drewes, of San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. Theo. M. Chase, Mrs. Hugh P. Chase, Mrs. Tompkins and Mrs. John Howland.

The lovely table was artistically decorated with a silver basket filled with spring flowers.

Miss Frances White Honored at Party.

A lovely affair of Wednesday was the bridge-tea at which Miss Agnes Adams was hostess at her home on Clairmont avenue. The party, in compliment to Miss Frances White, a popular bride-elect of next week.

TALMADGE ANSWERS GLYNN LEGISLATOR

The bill passed at the legislative session of 1925, adding 800 miles to the state highway system, was introduced at the instigation of W. H. Neel, chief engineer of the state highway department, according to a statement Wednesday by Representative Talmadge, of Jasper county, author of the bill. Representative Talmadge's statement was in reply to one made public last Sunday by F. Mann, representative from Glynn county.

Mr. Talmadge states that Mr. Mann opposed passage of the bill on the floor of the house last summer and stated that he first prepared the bill to add 300 miles to the state road system, but on the advice of Mr. Neel increased this to 800 miles. It later was increased to 800 miles by an amendment in the senate which was concurred in the house.

Mr. Talmadge says that he asked the highway board for 25 miles of the additional mileage, half for Morgan county and half for Jasper county, in order to connect two of the state roads. He says he was told that although they felt he was certainly entitled to consideration as author of the bill, they could make no promises regarding allocation until they had studied the entire state situation.

Mr. Talmadge also denies the charge by Mr. Mann that the highway board has already allocated practically all of this 800 miles, through its certification of mileage by counties, made to the state treasurer for pro rata distribution of the 1 cent of the gasoline tax which goes to the counties. Mr. Talmadge asserts that this county mileage is certified by Engineer Neel, over his own signature, instead of by the board.

Another important difference between a farmer and a town man is that the town man generally loses money when he raises chickens.—Kansas City Star.

HARTFORD AGENTS IN CONFERENCE AT ANSLEY HOTEL

The third session of the five-day convention of southeastern agents, Hartford Fire Insurance company, was attended by 150 delegates Wednesday at the Ansley hotel.

The guests included R. M. Bissell, company president, Hartford, Conn.; James Wyper, vice president; W. P. Prescott, southern district manager, and others.

Future possibilities of insurance business in the south were outlined, also reports for quarter showed increased business. Indications are 1928 will be a banner year, officials stated.

The City Builder Devotes Number To Grand Opera

The April number of The City Builder is from the press with a front cover devoted to grand opera in which the artist has brought out the atmosphere of the temple scene from "Aida," the opening opera in the 1926 season, in an excellent manner.

The entire April number is devoted to the fine and liberal arts which reveals Atlanta as a city of distinction among larger cities of the south in development of institutions which make for culture. Special articles dealing with the various fields of art found in Atlanta are illustrated with well-chosen subjects.

Frank L. Stanton contributes the opening page of the issue in a poetic observation on spring fever. O. B. Koeler writes "The City Builder," a grand opera. "Art and Its Meaning" is the subject of a leading article by J. J. Haverty, chairman of the art committee of the chamber of commerce. Mr. Haverty makes a strong plea for an art museum in Atlanta and his story carries an illustration of the proposed museum to be erected here.

Mrs. Samuel Inman writes on music, which she declares is "the universal language of the soul." She traces the growth of interest in Atlanta, beginning with the organization of the Atlanta Musical Festival association.

M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, writes on education in Atlanta, showing the definite interest which the schools and colleges have manifested in artistic development. President Brittain's story is illustrated with pictures of the Atlanta public schools, Agnes Scott college, Georgia Tech, Emory university and Oglethorpe university.

"Architectural Atlanta" is the subject of an article by G. Lloyd Preacher, in which he points to the unusual progress which Atlanta has made in the development of beautiful residential types. He finds many downtown examples of true architecture also.

Other leading articles in the April issue are: "Georgia's Wonderful Natural Beauty," by Andrew Auten; "Some of Atlanta's Native Trees," by Paul Hinde; "The Red Seal Plan," by Grady Kirby; "Where the Difference Lies," by Roy LeCraw; "A Former Citizen Sees Atlanta," by Mrs. Dora C. Horine; "Atlanta Artists Receiving National Recognition," by Ashton Chapman; "Good V. L. Peel—City Builder," by Platt Young; "Why People Come to Atlanta," by Frederic J. Paxson, and "The South Suffers Loss of Striplin," by Stewart Gelders.

"Weak and Puny"

"I WENT fishing one day, a heavy storm came up and I got soaking wet in the rain," says Mrs. Ora Carlie, of Ore City, Texas, whose picture appears above, telling of the serious complications that followed this exposure.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells," she continues. "My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right. I continued the use of Cardui for a while to be sure that my recovery was permanent."

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer. I would get so weak I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it and began to take it. Almost from the first dose I could feel the improvement."

"I wrote to The Chattanooga Medicine Company for the Home Treatment Book, and as soon as I got it I began taking Cardui according to the directions that specially fitted my case. It wasn't long until I was feeling a great deal better."

"I am much, much better now. I do not feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up, for in the fall I had no relish for food at all, while now I'm hungry for my meals."

HILARY INTERRUPTS A SCENE.

Padraic was searching the extremities of his labyrinthine experience for the most fitting way in which to answer Celia's objection. He decided at last to be simple and truthful.

"He wouldn't mind—he knows perfectly well that I'm in love with you. How could he help knowing it? He's a good sort, I'm sure, and wants you to be happy."

"It isn't so much that he'd mind as that I'd mind," she said stiffly. "It's dear of you to mind, of course," murmured Padraic disconsolately, "but I can't help wishing that you cared for me enough to think only of you and me."

"Well, I don't," returned Celia with some shortness. Padraic jumped to his feet at that, and vigorously kicked back a log that had rolled on to the hearth. The spitting burst of sparks that hissed up the wide chimney throat was like the fizz of anger that rushed through him at her words.

He turned away and seated himself on the cushioned fender a little apart from her, kneading his hands together between his knees, and looking down at them, his black brows bent gloomily. Then he looked up at her. There was temper in the pinch of his nostrils and his narrowed lids. He would have enjoyed shaking Celia at that moment until her silver headpiece fell off.

"Look here," Melusine," said he, "I wonder if you think I'm the type to be cast for the role of Cavaliere Servente in a play by Goldoni?" The mere fact that he was losing his self-control made Celia regain hers.

"It's a very silly type and you are not at all silly, so how could I think it?"

"Then will you love me and . . . marry me?" This was unpleasantly reminiscent of Lily Parkins who wore the engagement ring of her proposed second husband before she was divorced from her first. Celia replied coolly:

"How can I marry you when I'm married to some one else?" Padraic wanted to shout at her, but he said with velvet softness: "Fraser would give you a divorce like a shot if you asked for it."

"I shall never ask for it."

"Good God!" cried Padraic, really aghast, and stared at her as if she were Medusa rather than Melusine.

He sprang to his feet again, and this time all temper had gone from his face. It was as pale as hers and had a stricken look. When he tried to speak, his voice choked. He had to turn from her, and come back again before he could manage it.

"That means I'm to go . . . and for good," he said shakily. "I suppose you really don't know what love means . . . or you wouldn't have."

He couldn't continue, and broke off, muttering, "Goodbye," as he turned toward the door.

"Padraic!" called Celia. It was a cry of real distress and brought Padraic about with a swing. As soon as he saw the expression on her face, he ran back to her, kneeling beside her again and catching both her hands against his breast. The blue flame had leaped on more into his eyes.

"What is it? What is it?" he whispered in that warm, ardent voice of his.

"Padraic," said Celia piteously, her breast heaved and her rare blush covered her face to the rim of the silver headpiece.

"Padraic . . . I can't help being queer . . . but I do love you . . . in my way. And you misunderstood just now. . . I didn't mean that I would never marry you, if I could love you enough. . . I only meant that I would never ask for a divorce. . . If . . . If I find that I do love you . . . enough . . . I will . . . go away with you, and then he can get a divorce from me."

"Good God!" exclaimed Padraic a second time, but this time he said it softly, and there was a quaint worshipping look in his eyes oddly mingled of mirth and tenderness.

"I . . . I am not anxious to be married again to any one . . . even if I love him," . . . pursued Celia in further explanation, and completed his astonishment. "You see I wouldn't want any one to stay with me if he stopped loving me. . . And I have money of my own . . . so that he needn't mind leaving me. . ."

"You are the most adorable infant!" murmured Padraic, the words muffled in her hands which he was kissing fervently.

"You make me want to cry over you . . ."

"Please . . . please don't think I don't mean it," she urged.

"It's because I know how entirely you do mean it, that I want to cry," said he, continuing that rapid shower of kisses on her hands and wrists.

The one man, the one creature in truth, who had never really loved her, had come back to her from the brink of final departure. She would love him . . . she must love him . . .

As a first move in this direction, summoning all her will power, she laid her cheek on his bent head. His fine, thick hair warm with the firelight, gave her a strange sensation. It was like having the silken head of a child under her cheek. And all at once he seemed like a child to her . . . so young and eager that he made her feel old, very old and chill and forlorn . . .

Then in another instant he had his arm about her neck, and she saw again his brilliant eyes, magnified by nearness, and his quivering mouth, close to hers.

Panic seized her anew. "Not here . . . not yet . . ." she stammered.

"As you will," sighed he, releasing her. "I can wait . . . You wouldn't have called me back if you didn't love me."

Here the front door opened and closed; they heard voices in the hall, and Celia knew that Hilary had returned.

She went at once to meet him followed by Padraic. They were both pale and there was about them that indefinable air that clings to people who have just "been through something." If Hilary noticed this he gave no sign of it.

"I had supper laid for two in the library," said Celia, speaking a little faster than usual. "I asked Mr. O'Shea to have some, but he wasn't hungry."

"I am," said Hilary, smiling. "I believe I am too," replied Celia, with a note of surprise in her voice. . . . "and thirsty," she added.

"Won't you change your mind and join us?" asked Hilary of the young man.

But Padraic said he must get back to his work, so Hilary and Celia went alone into the library.

A look of pleased surprise came into Hilary's face when he saw that the little table was laid for two.

"You were going to wait up for me? That was very sweet of you. But you look pale, child. Aren't you feeling well?"

"The weather changed so suddenly. . . I think I caught a chill coming out of the theater," said Celia, and she shivered.

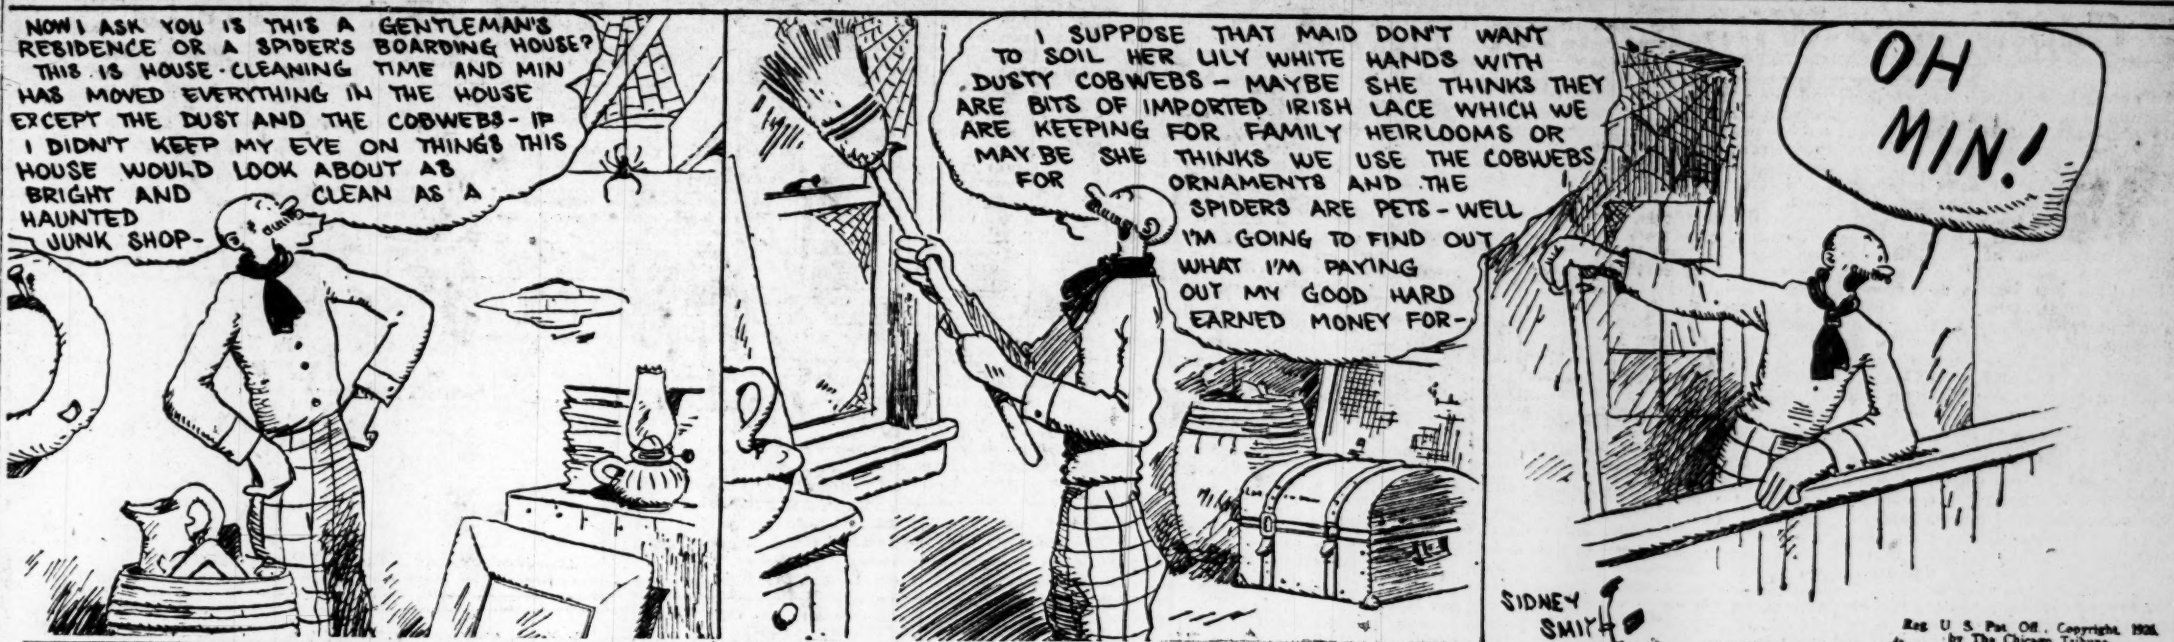

"Then you must have some wine, or will you share my Scotch and soda?"

"I think I'd like champagne," replied Celia, with one of her unexpectednesses. She never drank champagne, but her scene with Padraic had left her feeling listless instead of stimulated, and in her mind champagne was connected with the idea of liveliness. She wanted to be alert and cheerful for Hilary, who seemed so genuinely glad to be with her again.

Chevrolet Dealers Close Conference With Banquet

An entertaining vaudeville program consisting of music by a popular Atlanta orchestra, dancing and singing by local stars, an elaborate banquet and an address by H. H. Grant, vice president of the Chevrolet Motor company, featured the closing session Wednesday night of the annual regional one-day convention at the Biltmore hotel.

More than 500 dealers and prominent bankers, representing 236 cities throughout Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, attended, and joined with Mr. Grant and members of his executive staff in a jubilee celebrating Chevrolet's most successful year in making plans for the coming year.

The program opened with an entertaining ball arranged and directed by L. L. Sullivan and H. H. Grant, and E. A. Shipper, Chevrolet Motor company department. Souvenir automobiles, song books, balloons, horns, rattlers, streamers and other articles were given to the dealers and guests as they entered the beautifully appointed dining room.

Vaudeville Features. On an improvised platform the orchestra kept up a steady program of syncopation and latest song hits, while pretty girls danced in beams of spotlights and singers with good voices entertained with good voices.

Little Miss Freda Sullivan opened the program with a Charleston dance which was followed by several vocal selections by the Atlanta Symphony orchestra, pleased the audience with several selections on the Italian harp, the piano and the violin.

Following the vaudeville program, H. J. Klinger, assistant general sales manager, called the session to order and acted as toastmaster, introducing various executives.

Several Speeches Heard. L. S. Costley, manager in charge of sales and service organization in the territory, was the first speaker. He gave a brief history of the Chevrolet organization, stating that at the present time there are 185 dealers in the territory as compared to 55 one year ago.

Mr. Costley mentioned five features that the Atlanta regional zone would attempt to accomplish during the ensuing year. The first, he stated, would be to place 128 additional dealers in the territory; third, try to encourage and get dealers to sell more cars; fourth, try to encourage dealers to handle a larger volume of business; fourth, to aid dealers in adequate financing, and last, to cooperate with the dealers in the territory.

Dealers were asked to send in estimates of the number of cars they expect to sell during the next 30, 60, and 90 days.

He was given an ovation at the close of his address.

M. D. Douglas, regional zone manager, was next called upon by Mr. Klinger. He spoke on "Protection."

BY RALPH HEINZEN. Paris, April 1.—In the face of grave warnings by the Briand government that its action might complicate foreign relations, the chamber of deputies has passed the proposal for a French oil monopoly by a vote of 293 to 205. The vote was taken shortly after midnight. Same modifications were made in the original measure as proposed by the Socialist Deputy Marguier, but the vote went on record as favoring the monopoly against strong pressure by the government.

Final passage of the monopoly measure followed two previous ballots by the chamber. Urged earlier in the day to suppress the bill because of its danger to international relations the chamber had voted 287 to 232 to uphold the measure. Later, when the measure itself came up for a vote the chamber decided in its original form. Acceptance came after some modifications had been made. The date for beginning the monopoly has been extended to April, 1927.

Not Yet Ready. Anatole De Monzie, minister of public works, retorted that France was not ready to take on such a monopoly. "Furthermore, I would remind you," he said, "that we are engaged in important negotiations with the United States and Russia regarding debts. Who can answer what may happen if this action is taken by France?"

The possibility of foreign complications over the national oil monopoly plan which had been approved by the chamber's finance committee was suggested by Finance Minister Peret. While he did not mention the details of complaints feared from either the United States or Great Britain, if such a monopoly should tend to drive American and British oil out of France, he warned that approval of the monopoly would constitute a dangerous act. He further pointed out that the government would be required from four to five hundred million francs for the purchase of all oil properties was impossible of execution.

Deputy Herault endorsed Peret's viewpoint and recalled the conflict between the United States and Great Britain over the oil monopoly of Great Britain. The chamber would make a mistake by involving France in a similar controversy with the United States, he declared. Every nation owning oil would be involved if France sponsored the contemplated monopoly, he said. He added that he would never vote for a measure which he believed would cause unemployment in France and result in a catastrophe for the nation. Other deputies who followed Herault insisted that the oil monopoly would injure the forthcoming debt negotiations with Great Britain and the United States.

AMERICAN OIL MEN CONCERNED. New York, March 31.—American oil men, with approximately $17,500,000 invested in France, are concerned over the proposed creation of a French national oil monopoly which would have a discriminatory effect against this important export business from the United States.

The French monopoly was proposed first a few years after the war. Now there is linked with the proposal negotiations between France and Russia by which Russia proposed to supply France each year with all the oil France can use. France imports approximately $100,000,000 worth of oil annually from America and other foreign countries.

While the ability of Russia to supply France with sufficient oil each year is questionable, if it were practical it would have the effect of eliminating all other foreign oil selling firms. Even a partial agreement for a Franco-Russian oil deal would affect American oil investments in France.

and his address was followed by a forceful talk by J. R. Little, parts and service manager of the central office in Detroit, who emphasized the importance of dealers maintaining an up-to-date service station for customers.

Grant Closes Session. The closing address of the convention was delivered by H. H. Grant. The speaker stated that he was very much interested in the Atlanta territory "because in it are so much material which is to be utilized." High praise was paid to Mr. Costley by Mr. Grant, who stated that Chevrolet could not have picked out a more capable man for the zone manager.

Mr. Grant stated that the importance of the industry, Mr. Grant asserted. "Tremendous new car production schedules can only be maintained if the Chevrolet dealer maintains through continued merchandising of used cars. The automobile industry has not arrived at the point where a dealer can sell his used cars through continued merchandising of used cars. The automobile dealer can only move his quota of new automobiles if he can sell his used cars. He must have a show room for your used cars," the speaker said.

Other questions he discussed at length included financing and retail, production, distribution and dealerships.

A Railroad Track For The Eyes

The alphabetical and numerical notations which form the framework of the A-B-C Classified Section are in effect rails for the eyes to run upon. The eyes are guided by these notations just as the wheels of a train are guided by iron rails.

If the "rails" in this section were not safe and sound, this would not be a profitable route for you to travel.

But they are!
There's no reason why one's attention should jump the track. The route in plain and easy to follow. With ordinary caution one will never plow into a sandbank of perplexity or plunge into a ravine of doubt and despair.

This track is always clear and you have the right of way.

All aboard for Opportunity!

Beadles, with interest since February 1, 1925, payment thereof to be made by the purchaser. The advertisement is being published simultaneously in The Atlanta Constitution and in the Bulloch Times. Executed at the City of Atlanta, Georgia, this 27th day of March, 1926.

GEORGIA—FULTON COUNTY.
To the Superior Court of said county: The petition of W. L. Penn, N. G. Verigalis, Pete Patterson and R. M. Connally, all of said state and county, respectfully shows: 1. That petitioners desire for themselves, their associates, successors and assigns, to be incorporated under the name of "PINE BARKERS." 2. For a period of twenty years, with all rights allowed by law to corporations created by the laws of this state. 3. The principal object of the said corporation will be in this county, but the petitioners desire that they be given the right to establish branch offices and factories in other places, as may be deemed expedient by the board of directors of the corporation. 4. The object of the corporation is pecuniary gain to its stockholders. 5. The principal business of the corporation will be the establishment, operation of a sawmill, and the manufacture of lumber, and the objects and purposes proposed to be accomplished are, to wit: To acquire, purchase, or otherwise acquire, own, mortgage, pledge, sell, assign and transfer, or otherwise dispose of, land, trade, deal in and with, goods, wares and merchandise and real and personal property of every class and description. To acquire, hold, use, sell, assign, lease, grant licenses in respect of, and otherwise dispose of letters patent, patent rights, licenses and privileges, inventions, improvements, processes, copyrights, trademarks and trade names, relating to or useful in connection with any business of the corporation. To guarantee, purchase, hold, sell, assign, transfer, mortgage, pledge or otherwise dispose of shares of the capital stock of, or bonds, securities, or evidences of indebtedness created by another, and while the owner thereof, to exercise all the rights, powers and privileges of ownership. To issue bonds, debentures or other obligations of the corporation from time to time, for any of the purposes or objects of the corporation, and to execute the same by mortgage, pledge, deed, or otherwise. To purchase, hold, sell, and transfer the shares of its own capital stock, when such action would not reduce the assets of the corporation below the minimum capital authorized. In general, to carry on any other business in connection with the foregoing, whether manufacturing, selling or otherwise, and to have and exercise all of the powers, rights, and privileges now conferred, or which may hereafter be conferred, upon corporations organized under the authority of this court. The foregoing clauses shall be binding upon both as objects and powers; and it is expressly stipulated and provided that the foregoing enumeration of powers shall not be held to limit or restrict in any manner the powers of the corporation. The minimum capital stock of the corporation shall be ten thousand dollars, and the minimum number of shares shall be one hundred. The shares shall be of the par value of one hundred dollars each. Petitioners desire the right to increase the capital stock of the corporation upon a majority vote of the common stockholders and also the right to increase the number of shares. Petitioners desire the right to decrease the capital stock of the corporation upon a majority vote of the common stockholders, provided such reduction do not reduce the capital of the corporation below the minimum expressed above. Petitioners desire the right, upon a majority vote of the common stockholders, to reduce the par value of the common stock, and by and with the consent of the preferred stockholders, to reduce the par value of the preferred stock upon majority vote of the common stockholders. Petitioners desire the right to lease, preferred stock upon the same terms and conditions as are lawful and upon such terms and conditions as the board of directors of the corporation shall deem expedient. 5. Wherefore, petitioners pray that they be incorporated under the name and style aforesaid, with all of the rights, powers, and privileges and immunities, heretofore set out, and with such other rights, powers and privileges as are by law conferred on corporations of this character.

Georgia Now Will Retain 80 Per Cent of Such Taxes Collected by Federal Government.

Governor Clifford Walker signed the inheritance tax bill, just passed by the general assembly on Wednesday afternoon. The bill amends the state inheritance tax law in order that Georgia may take advantage of the provision in the federal estate tax law which allows the state to retain 80 per cent of such taxes collected by the federal government. The measure does not increase the inheritance taxes paid in this state.

By passage of this measure, the legislature has saved for Georgia between $800,000 and $700,000 it was pointed out by the governor as he signed the bill. This represents the amount which will be paid to this state out of the federal inheritance taxes which would have been paid if the present special session of the legislature had not been called.

The federal government collects in inheritance taxes in Georgia over $800,000 annually. Under this law, 80 per cent of this, or $640,000, will be paid to the state. This means that at least $800,000 will be gained to the state for each year, and an equal amount in 1927 before the date of the regular session of the general assembly.

Had the measure of the law been left until the regular session in 1927, it could not have been operative before August, 1927, at the earliest, with the result that between $200,000 and $300,000 of this revenue for next year would likewise have been lost. Thus, by this one action, the extra session has saved for the state possibly $800,000 or $700,000, and at the least $500,000 in revenue which could not have been claimed or collected at any time in the future, it not being the law for the balance of this year.

Governor Walker, it is understood, planned to include passage of this bill in his call for the extra session on the first, but was unable to incorporate it in his first call, inasmuch as the federal law making it possible had not then been perfected by congress. On the advice of State Tax Commissioner J. T. Dozier and others, he therefore left it out of the original call, with the purpose of incorporating it in the call by amendment later. When he called the second extra session 10 days ago, he accordingly included the reference to inheritance tax legislation.

America Invited To Explain Court Ideas at Geneva
Geneva, March 31.—(AP)—A formal invitation to the United States to participate in the conference of the League of Nations on the subject of the world court protocol to be held in Geneva September 1, to discuss American reservations to the League of Nations, was dispatched to Washington today.

The general opinion in League of Nations circles tonight was that the conference of court members would be held early in the morning, but it was pointed out in Geneva to-day that the members of the court could not reach an agreement on how to deal with the American reservations without the presence of a United States delegation, but league officials earnestly urged the United States to send a way to participate. The presence of American representatives, it was stated, probably would lead up to the framing of a new protocol, the signature of which would be satisfactory to the United States senate.

Invitation to Geneva.
The invitation to the Geneva meeting is contained in a letter sent to Secretary of State Kellogg by Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations.

WASHINGTON DOUBTS RESULT OF MOVE.
Washington, March 31.—(AP)—There is grave doubt here whether any good purpose would result from sending American representatives to the Geneva conference on American reservations to the League of Nations. The American reply to the conference invitation is expected to set forth that the reservations are regarded here as speaking for themselves, and to emphasize that the United States cannot enter into any discussion contemplating their amendment or interpretation.

PRESIDENT URGED TO ATTEND FETE AT WILLIAMSBURG
Washington, March 31.—(AP)—President Coolidge was urged by a delegation of Virginians today to attend a fete at Williamsburg, Va., on May 15, the exercises in celebration of the 150th anniversary of the adoption by the Virginia assembly of a memorial looking to the declaration of independence of Virginia from Great Britain. The president has not yet decided if the invitation can be accepted.

Senators Swanson and Glass and Representative Moore, of Virginia, today introduced to President Coolidge the delegation of Virginians.

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the Williamsburg College, was among those to urge the president to attend the exercises.

In the delegation representing the state legislature, were Senator Julian Gunn and Representatives H. Earlton Haynes, of Fairfax county; Ashton Dovel, of Williamsburg, and I. N. Coleman, of Dinwiddie county.

YOUTH ABDUCTED IN COLLEGE PARK

College Park, Ga., March 31.—(Special).—Wayne Stevens, 11-year-old son of W. L. Stevens, a motor-man in employ of the Georgia Railway & Power company, is confined to his bed tonight at his home, 601 West Cambridge avenue, and is in a highly nervous condition as the result of having been kidnapped this afternoon, choked and blindfolded and then thrown bodily from a moving automobile, according to police reports here.

Young Stevens, according to his story, which is substantiated by police investigation, while returning home from Temple Avenue school this afternoon was hailed by two negroes riding in a Ford car who told him his mother was ill and that they had been sent for him. He was taken into the car and while winding around several streets in College Park he was questioned by the negroes as to the occupation of his father, what line he operated on and if he had money in the bank. He says he had never seen either of the negroes before.

The youth states that after getting onto the main Jonesboro road he was suddenly blindfolded by the negroes who also crammed a handkerchief into his mouth. After traveling several miles he says that while the car was still running, but at a slow rate of speed, however, he was pitched out of the car, landing in the mud, and he saw the Ford car disappear around a bend in the road.

According to Acting Chief of Police Brice, the youth was brought into Hapeville by a Mr. Pittman, who stated the found the boy crying while he was struggling along the Dixie highway near Jester's Mill. He turned the boy over to Chief Brice, who carried him to his home, where it was found his mouth was injured and he was suffering from bruises caused by the fall.

Police in Fulton, Clayton and other counties have been notified and the negroes are being sought. Young Stevens describes his abductors as being negroes, one tall, wearing a gray suit.
